REPUBLICAN EFFORT TO CONTROL CITY COUNCIL AND TO DEFEAT RIGHT OF PRESIDENT ROSSEL

Resolution to Dismiss Committees Recently Appointed Is Declared Out of Order by President

THE FINANCE ORDINANCE IS HELD UP AGAIN

Stasel's Resolution to Enjoin Destruction of the City Building is Adopted and Solicitor Jones Denounces the Measure and Refuses to Act at Present.

The Republican minority of the city council, turned into a majority by the desertion of John A. Prior and Joseph Stasel, councilmen-at-large, from the Democracy of the body. At Monday night's meeting, this combine under the leadership of a Republican, defied the city administration, the president of council, Harry Rossel, and united in legislation which can only prove a detriment to the city.

The opposition of this strange alliance developed early in Monday night's meeting, when Councilman Prior offered a motion that all reference to the president's appointment of standing committees contained in the minutes of the meeting of January 6, be stricken therefrom. Mr. Prior's motion was seconded by his colleague, Joseph Stasel. Councilman Dayton from the Sixth Ward requested the president to call for an aye and nay vote on the motion. Mr. Prior's motion was supported by Councilman Dayton, Payne, Keller, Prior and Stasel. Messrs. Muenz, Baker, Dwyer and Beckman opposed the alteration in the minutes.

Throughout the meeting of council this opposition to the Democratic majority was in evidence and the climax came at the conclusion of the meeting when, in defiance to the advice of City Solicitor Roderick Jones, council adopted Mr. Stasel's resolution, instructing the city solicitor to enjoin the destruction of the old city building in compliance with the orders of the state fire marshal.

This action on the part of council brought a communication from the city solicitor which was scathing in its denunciation. He declared that he would refuse to bring such suit or allow the name of his office to bring such suit unless he was advised by the attorney general that there was some chance of success. He stated that he did not anticipate that such action would be necessary before he received an opinion from Attorney General Hogan on the matter.

The control of Councilman Dayton, Republican, over Messrs. Stasel and Prior, Democrats, was in evidence throughout the meeting and Dayton's lieutenants were well coached. They responded nicely to his beck and call, every bit of anti-administration legislation going through by one vote, the votes of the two South Newark Democrats (?) making this possible.

Following the roll call and the correction of the minutes the regular business of the evening was taken up. Mayor Swartz sent a communication to the council, re-appointing the present members of the board of health. Councilman Dayton offered a motion that the confirmation of these appointments be deferred until the first Monday in February, the time limit set by the statutes. He had evidently failed to instruct his South Newark councilmen for his motion failed to get a second and Mr. Muenz's motion to receive the communication and confirm the appointments was seconded and when put to a vote, all voted aye but Mr. Dayton, who opposed the motion.

The public service committee reported on two communications, protesting against the purchase of cemetery grounds, referred to it at the last meeting, saying that the question involved were purely legal and recommended that the matter be referred to the law committee.

City Engineer Wells recommended that the city secure permission from the Pennsylvania railroad to pass under their tracks at Essex street with a sewer being constructed in that street. He filed his preliminary estimates of cost on the paving and sewer work in Oakwood avenue, and the Riley street paving.

The first ordinance introduced was one from the finance committee appropriating funds for the first six months of the year. This matter has been in the hands of the committee for two months and the delay in presenting the bill was due to the failure of some members of the committee to meet.

Clerk Franklin started the reading of the bill which covered several pages of closely written manuscript. He had not proceeded far before Councilman Prior stopped the clerk and addressed the chair saying that the council should be informed for what purpose these various amounts had been appropriated. He said that he thought it was no more than right that council should be advised on the matter. Mr. Muenz, chairman of the committee which went over the budgets, informed the members of council that he supposed that the appointment of the committee was an indication that the council had confidence in its members and that its report in the form of the ordinance should be sufficient. The president ordered the clerk to proceed and there was no other interruption.

An item in the cemetery fund caught the eagle eye of Councilman Dayton. It was an appropriation of $750 for "lands and buildings." He moved to amend the ordinance by striking out this item. The sum was appropriated for the purchase of cemetery lands adjoining Cedar Hill. Mr. Muenz stated that the committee unanimously opposed the appropriation of this sum as it had been determined that the proposed purchase was illegal and that the money would not be used. The ordinance was amended in this section, leaving $200 in this fund, the usual amount appropriated for emergencies.

Councilman Prior again protested against the passage of the measure until the members were familiar with the provisions thereof. "It's been the custom," he said, "to call the councilmen to go over the appropriation ordinance." At this point, Councilmen Muenz, Beckman and others declared that during their experience as councilmen, they had never been consulted regarding the measure until it was read in open meeting.

On Mr. Muenz's motion to suspend the rules, Messrs. Baker, Beckman, Dayton, Dwyer, Muenz and Payne, voted favorably. Councilmen Prior and Keller opposed the suspension of rules and Mr. Stasel refused to vote. The motion to suspend rules requires a three-fourths vote of the membership and the motion was lost.

Later in the evening, Mr. Muenz, chairman of the finance committee stated that a meeting would be held Wednesday night when Councilmen Prior and Keller would be given an opportunity to go over the ordinance. He stated that each item would be explained carefully that the simplest since the Saturday or Monday before mind might understand it. This date did not suit some of the councilmen and Thursday night was suggested. A panic almost followed when it was suggested that this was the night of "The Pink Lady" at the Auditorium and it was hinted that no one would attend a council meeting with such a show on the boards. Friday night was finally selected and council adjourned until that night when the appropriation ordinance will again be taken up.

In the mean time, city employes who have not received any money since the Saturday or Monday before Christmas, will be compelled to make their purchases "on tick" until Messrs. Prior and Keller can assure themselves that no one is trying to run off with the contents of the city treasury.

Ordinances by Mr. Dwyer authorizing the service director to enter into contract for the construction of the North street sewer, and instructing the auditor and mayor to issue notes to borrow money for this improvement, were passed on suspension of rules.

Other ordinances were introduced as follows: By Mr. Dayton, two ordinances establishing pension and relief funds for the police and firemen of

LOBBY BILL MAY AVAIL TOMORROW

Columbus, Jan. 21.—An attempt will be made by friends of the administration to secure the passage in the house of representatives today of the revamped anti-lobby bill, which has been substituted for the bill introduced last week, and which was found to be imperfect. The new bill contains the fundamental provisions of the original bill, with the exception that it does not hold the governor in the light of a lobbyist. The registration clause, providing a registration fee of $3 for all lobbyists, is retained. Should it pass today, the bill will be sent to the senate immediately, and if that body takes immediate action upon it, the bill may be in the hands of the governor tomorrow.

The liquor license bill will follow but will be postponed in the house until after the second debate upon it tonight by representatives of the wets and drys.

PAY $2,000 TO COLLECT 5 CENT FARE

Columbus, Jan. 21.—It cost the Mahoning Valley Railway Co. $2000 to collect a nickel fare from William Reiber Dec. 8, 1907, as the result of a decision of the supreme court today. Weiber was riding from Youngstown to Newcastle, Pa., when he offered the conductor a quarter for his fare. The conductor told him the fare was 30 cents. While Reiber was standing up trying to extract a nickel from his pocket, the train hit a curve and he was thrown against a seat, sustaining fractured ribs and an injured back. Circuit court reversed the lower court, but the supreme court today affirmed the common pleas.

BURGLAR NABBED BY LOCAL MEN

Clever Work of Police Officers in Recovering Stolen Loot

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

Packed in Suit Cases Recovered at Depot Just as They Were Being Shipped Out of the City.

Prompt action on the part of Chief of Police Blizzard, Patrolmen Abbott and Burke Monday night resulted in the recovery of practically all of the musical instruments stolen in Columbus Saturday night when the music store of the Otto Heanton Company was burglarized.

A hurried trip to the depot office of the Adams Express Company, where they identified two suit cases containing the property, and another record trip to headquarters and to Mayor Swartz's home to get search warrants featured the rapid work and crowned their efforts with success.

It was about 5 o'clock when Detective Creedon of the Columbus police department arrived in the city to take charge of William Marshall, arrested yesterday as he was trying to dispose of a cornet at the O. S. Gilbert music store, in West Main street.

The detective and the chief sweated Marshall at the city prison, urging him to come clean with any information he had regarding the burglary itself or the location of the loot. He denied any knowledge of the theft, but said he heard the other two men in the party talking about shipping the stuff to Pittsburg.

Chief Blizzard soon learned that a negro had shipped two suit cases by Adams Express to Pittsburg and that the suit cases were then en route to the railroad station.

The officers hotfooted it to the station and found the suit cases. They satisfied themselves that the baggage contained the instruments, and warned the man in charge that the shipment contained stolen property. He asked that the shipment be delayed in case the officers did not return with the necessary legal documents in time to intercept them.

Affidavits were prepared and sent post haste to the home of Mayor Swartz, where they were properly executed. Then the officers secured possession of the two suit cases and found that they contained 11 clarionets, four cornets and one saxophone. One clarionet, three cornets and one violin are still missing.

Detective Creedon returned to Columbus this morning with the prisoner and the property and Marshall will be arraigned on a charge of burglary. The value of the instruments stolen is placed at $400. About $300 worth of the property was recovered.

Patrolmen Burke and Abbott worked rapidly all day Monday on the case. It was early in the morning that two negroes entered the Rawling music store, where they tried to sell a clarionet valued at $50. They were willing to sell the instrument for $5.

The patrolmen were not notified until some time after the men left the store. Then Patrolmen Burke and Abbott started on search of the men. They saw Marshall enter the Gilbert store, in West Main street and attempt to dispose of a cornet. Patrolman Burke grabbed the man before he had time to complete the deal.

A tip was received that two negroes answering to the description of the two men seen in the Rawlings store were walking west along the railroad tracks at Sixth street. The chief and Patrolman Burke hurried to the railroad, where they caught a freight and rode to Pine street. The chief swung from the rapidly moving train at Pine street and severely sprained his left ankle. He was able to be out this morning, though the foot gave him considerable trouble.

Every resort where the negroes might take refuge was searched and carefully watched for the two men, who visited the Rawling store, but they succeeded in eluding the police officers.

Patrolmen Abbott and Burke are deserving of much credit for their prompt and tireless work in the matter and the chief was complimented by the Columbus detective for his decisive action in recovering the two suit cases which all but slipped from the grasp of the officials.

GANG'S BOSS SURRENDERS TO POLICE

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Frand Madia, owner of the Michigan avenue garage, which was used as headquarters of the automobile bandits, surrendered today while the city police force was in the midst of its search for Robert Webb, the gang's chauffeur, who yesterday shot and killed Peter Hart. Madia was surrendered by his attorney, who advised him to tell everything he knew of the desperadoes. After murdering Detective Hart with the officer's own revolver Webb made his fourth escape in 11 days. He was one of the motor crew that shot Policeman Frederick Stricken Jan. 9. Jan. 14 he jumped from a window and eluded the police. Last Saturday he was arrested and released on the word of Madia, gang headquarters keeper, and yesterday he killed Hart and fled.

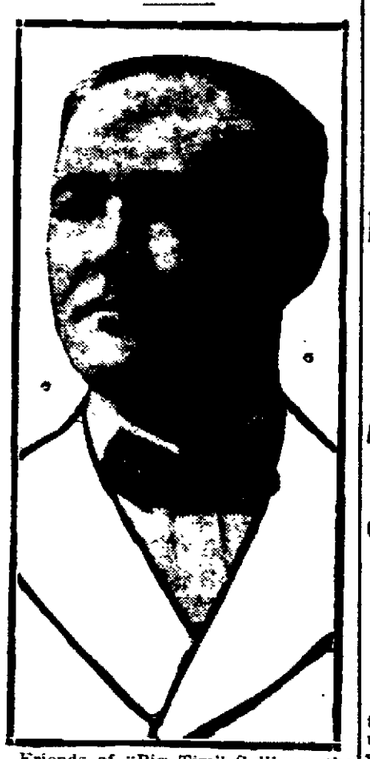

ONE INJUNCTION ASKED; OTHERS ARE CONTEMPLATED

New York, Jan. 21.—The garment workers' strike today has reached the injunction stage. One injunction has been granted and numerous others have been applied for to restrain the strikers from interfering with the operation of factories. Only one arrest was made and there was but little disorder.

SEVEN OSAGES WILL NOT GET THEIR OLD JOBS

Washington, Jan. 21.—The attempt of the seven Osage Indian counsellors to force their re-instatement by mandamus proceedings failed today when the District Supreme court dismissed their petition. Secretary Fisher removed them for having been "unduly influenced" in granting an extensive lease to the Uncle Sam Oil company.

Bowery Leader Who Has Been Committed to Sanitarium

Friends of "Big Tim" Sullivan, the famous Tammany Hall politician, say he is not so ill physically and mentally that he will not be able to resume his duties after a respite from business and political cares. But "Big Tim" has been committed to Dr. Bond's Sanitarium in Yonkers by Justice Amend, and is virtually a prisoner there. The commitment did not come as a result of a serious relapse in the patient's condition, but was due to the fact that his business affairs were badly in need of attention, and it was necessary to vest some one with the power to handle them. "Big Tim" was born in a New York tenement, July 23, 1862. He has been a newsboy and printer's devil, and his rise to power in politics has been rapid. He was elected to the Assembly in 1897, and reelected several times. Then he went into the State Senate, and later to congress.

ROOT WOULD ELIMINATE FREE TOLLS

Washington, Jan. 21.—"The United States should either submit the Panama free toll question to impartial arbitration, or retire from the position we have taken," was the declaration of Senator Root in the Senate today in a speech favoring repeal of the free toll provision of the new Panama Canal Act.

Senator Root took position that Congress should not have passed a law last summer that discriminated against foreign shipping and granted free tolls to American coastwise shipping.

WILL SEND BATTLESHIP TO MEXICO

Washington, Jan. 21.—Disquieting reports of a grave situation at Vera Cruz, Mexico, today caused state department officials to seriously consider detaching one of the warships from the first division of the Atlantic fleet at Guantanamo for immediate duty at the Mexican port. If no reassuring news comes today, this may be done.

CLASH AT LICENSE HEARING

Between Sec. Percy Andreaea and Wayne B. Wheeler

ATTENDANCE WAS SMALL

Owing to the Inclement Weather—Governor Cox An Interested Spectator.

Columbus, O., Jan. 21. — Charges that the Acker bill, the offering of the drys, contained sleepers designed to prohibit, not to regulate, the liquor trade and counter charges that house bill No. 4, initiated by the brewers' petition, contained sleepers designed to nullify the constitutional restrictions of the traffic, and even to weaken the enforcement of the present local option laws, marked the first clash over the method of licensing saloons at last night's public hearing before the joint temperance committees of the senate and house in the hall of the latter.

Governor Cox, invited by resolution offered in the house at the afternoon session by Chairman Smith L. Welsh of the house committee on liquor traffic, was an interested auditor, sitting with Speaker Swain at a reporter's desk. Judge R. M. Wanamaker of the supreme court was among those present. Because of the inclemency of the weather, the attendance was not much greater than the number of ticket holders and no overflow meeting was held, as was forecast.

Secretary Percy Andreaea

Secretary Percy Andreaea of the State Brewers' Association made the only speech for the brewers' bill. Superintendent Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League assumed the burden of the attack upon it. Judge Samuel L. Black briefly protested, as judge of the juvenile court, against the provision of the brewers' bill which seeks to relieve the saloonkeeper from responsibility for selling to children and makes the child responsible. Both sides reserved other orators and arguments for the second hearing tonight.

Secretary Andreaea leaned strongly on the recommendation by Governor Cox, in his message, of the state board system for justification of the brewers' bill.

He admitted the state board plan would not eliminate the liquor question from state politics, but said it would take it out of community politics. He declared the bill he advocated would also render effective the "legion of regulatory and prohibitory laws" now in existence, saying:

"Do not forget that this license code, in addition to the life which it proposes to give to its own specific provisions, will infuse new life into innumerable laws which for years have been ineffective because the penalty did not and could not include the forfeiture of the right of the offender to continue in business, which means, of course, the forfeiture of the opportunity to offend again."

He ridiculed the provision for the first and second choice voting for members of the county board of licensing commissioners in the Acker bill, comparing them to the arithmetical problem, "If a cat and a half devour a rat and a half in a minute and a half, how many cats will be able to devour four and three-quarters rats in 10 and three-sevenths minutes?"

He declared: "The Acker code bristled with examples of — what shall I call it—prohibitory license or licensed prohibition?" He charged there were various instances of this. He said:

"Under the provision for application for license, line 130, the code says:

"Under the provision for application shall have the precedence in se-

Peculiar After Effects of Grip This Year

Leaves Kidneys in Weakened Condition.

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are very distressing and leave the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to more serious sickness, such as dreaded Bright's Disease. Local druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and, being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, free by mail, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince any one who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50c. and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this paper.

NUNCUPATIVE WILL DISPOSED OF IN COURT

Probate Judge Hunter Renders an Opinion—Court News of General Interest to Readers.

Probate Judge Robbins Hunter has just handed down his opinion in the matter of the noncupative will of Joseph E. Wilson of Croton.

The application to probate a nuncupative or verbal will is a rare occurrence in probate court routine and the case at hand has been decided by the court after no little trouble.

After a consideration of the matter Judge Robbins Hunter has refused to probate the alleged will on the ground that it is indispensable to the validity of a nuncuputaive will that testator shall request those present to bear witness to his disposition, that it is his last will. This does not have to be made in any particular form, but it must be made and understood and in the Wilson case this the court finds, is lacking.

Joseph E. Wilson, the testator, was a former resident of Croton who died early in December, 1912. Shortly before his death he expressed the desire, in the presence of three witnesses, that Alice Dixon, who had cared for him during the latter years of his life, be given the sum of $800. This was reduced to writing in the following form:

Croton, Ohio, Dec. 17. 1912.
Nuncupative Will of Joseph E. Wilson.

We, in his presence, and he in our presence, we heard the following testamentary words spoken by Joseph E. Wilson on December 12th, about 8 o'clock a. m. 1912.

I want Alice Dixon to have eight hundred dollars out of my estate.
GEORGE W. DAVIDSON,
FAYETTE STADEN,
JOHN CARPENTER.
Witnesses.

This writing was offered for probate by the attorneys for Alice Dixon and has been held under consideration for several weeks by the court.

Judge Hunter finds that all the statutory requirements are present with the exception of what is known as the rogatio testium.

The lack of this the court finds prevents it from being probated.

Mexico's Goat.

To get your goat in Mexico has no meaning other than to lay unlawful hands on the quadruped. The goat is to Mexico what the sheep is to Australia and beef to old England, and more, because it is both meat and drink. The republic of bullfights and bandits could not get along without the humble little animal we have always associated with Harlem back yards and a diet of tin cans. Its flesh sells at 14 cents a pound, Mexican money, and a steaming stew of tender young kid is not to be despised by a hungry man. Every Mexican hotel serves goat meat in some form or other. A fat goat sells for $3 on the hoof, and a lean one brings only $1.50. The tallow sells at 12 cents a pound and is commonly used in place of lard. The skins are worth $1.50 each, and the milk retails at 12½ cents a quart.—New York Press.

BAD BREAKING OUT ON CHILD'S SCALP

Little White Lumps, Pimples Would Break and Run Matter. Itching and Burning. Hair Came Out in Bunches. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured. Also Made Hair Grow.

813 E. Second St., Muncie, Ind.—"My little girl had a bad breaking out on the scalp. It was little white lumps. The pimples would break out as large as a common pinhead all over her head. They would break and run yellow matter. She suffered nearly a year with itching and burning. It was sore and itched all the time. The matter that ran from her head was very thick. I did not comb her hair very often, her head was too sore to comb it, and when I did comb, it came out in bunches. Some nights her head itched so bad she could not sleep.

"I tried several different soaps and ointments, also patent medicine, but nothing could I get to stop it. I began using Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment this summer after I sent for the free samples. I used them and they did so much good I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and some Cuticura Ointment. I washed her head with Cuticura Soap and rubbed the Cuticura Ointment in the scalp every two weeks. A week after I had washed her head three times you could not tell she ever had a breaking out on her head. Cuticura Soap and Ointment also make the hair grow beautifully. TURKEY SUPPER SERVED AT THE HOTEL SEILER

Mr. J. K. Mathews, proprietor of the Seiler Hotel, was the host Monday evening to 200 guests at a splendidly prepared seven o'clock turkey dinner. The menu consisted of turkey stuffed with oysters and served with cranberry sauce, and all the delicacies of the season. The guests were seated in the large dining room of the hotel, and Marsh's orchestra furnished a splendid program of music.

Mat Kneupfer acted as master of ceremonies and kept things lively after the banquet had been served. He called upon the guests for various stunts and many of them were quite clever and will probably be introduced later in an entertainment that it being planned. Mr. Carl Jones, who is known as one of Newark's clever comedians, and who will have a prominent part in the approaching Elk minstrel, sang several dialect songs that made a great hit. Mr. Earl Lanning recited a German poem and later was joined by Mr. Kneupfer in a Swiss warble song, the latter gentleman also making quite a hit with familiar German ballads, proving to be a musician of rare talent. Mr. John Mohlenpah responded to the toast, "Sociability," and made an eloquent after-dinner speech. Mr. C. O. Burke, in a witty manner related many amusing experiences in police work. A number of others assisted in making the after-dinner hours pass very pleasantly.

Mine Host Mathews succeeded his father-in-law, Mr. A. H. Seiler, in the management of the hotel. Last night's affair was in the nature of a dining room housewarming, as the dining room has been closed for some time, only rooms being furnished the guests. Landlord Mathews is a hale fellow well met, and he entertained his guests in a royal manner, and it is a foregone conclusion that when the doors of the dining room are opened next week, the place will become more popular than ever.

MUST PROPOSE IN WRITING.

New Law Suggested to Prevent Breach of Promise Suits.

Boston.—Representative Winfield F. Prime of Winchester is author of a bill which is now before the Massachusetts legislature which, whether it becomes law or not, will attract wide attention.

Mr. Prime's bill provides that all proposals of marriage shall be made in writing in order to be a basis for a lawsuit. He hopes to attain by the passage of the bill a substantial diminution of the number of breach of promise suits. All possible attempts at blackmail, he thinks, would be effectually blocked by such a law.

O'DAY MAY BE NAMED MANAGER OF MOLDERS; STATE LEAGUE MEETING

That Newark would be in the Ohio State League next season and that the team would probably be piloted by Charles O'Day, late of Springfield and Indianapolis, was indicated at the meeting of the magnates of the Ohio State League in Columbus Monday. Owner Frank G. Warden of the Newark club was unable to be present, and Theo. Weiffenbach, business manager of last year's Molders, was present at the meeting, representing Mr. Warden's interests.

The rumor was current at the meeting that O'Day would be the new manager of the Molders. This is supporting a rumor which has been persistently circulated in Newark for some time, that the aggressive manager who has made good under W. H. Watkins' ownership of several clubs, was dickering with Mr. Warden. The authoritative announcement of his selection as manager would occasion no surprise.

In hope of avoiding unruly spring weather, club representatives of the Ohio State League yesterday afternoon voted for a season's opener later than any of the five of the past have occurred. Initial games of the 1913 campaign are to be played on May 8. A set of 140 contents will be scheduled. Therefore the finish will come upon Sept. 21.

It may not be until the first week in March that a final lineup of the circuit can be announced. Not one of last year's six retired at yesterday's meeting, which was held at the Neil House, Columbus, but no positive announcement could be made for Lima, which is the only city of the lot that has been represented continuously in the organization.

Secretary Joe Kauffman reported that his associates had not taken up the matter of continuing for final action, but intimated that a decision would be reached within the next ten days. It is believed that the Lima club, which was going great guns at the close of last season, will be found lined up when the time comes.

With a number of informal applications for membership on hand, there was need of a circuit committee. It was formed by the selection of President Read and Vice President Quinn, who will pass upon the qualifications of such organizations as in due time may apply formally for admission.

Huntington, W. Va., is looked upon as a leader for a place in the revamped circuit. It is only 20 miles from Ironton and twice as large. A downtown park is in readiness and there is a strong popular sentiment for entry into the Ohio State League. Charleston, 50 miles from Huntington, is willing to be considered for membership, and there are at least three Ohio cities, now out of organized baseball, that may be made available.

Delegates approached the very important salary question with a view of getting the league at a self-sustaining basis, so that it may continue for years without any member going on the rocks for lack of funds. The monthly team limit was fixed at $1000, exclusive of manager, and it was deemed best not to say what the top price to any individual player should be.

Propositions for the adoption of an official ball were considered and the one presented by O. F. Merpaul of Cincinnati for the Spalding Company, was adopted for a term of five years.

League officers were continued on duty, and the annual election will occur at the next meeting, which will be held late in February or early in March.

President Gabileman of the Portsmouth club, and Rev. John Schneider, a director of the Ironton club, came as representatives of the teams on the extreme southern end of the circuit. President Siberell and Director Boulger were in attendance from Chillicothe. Mansfield was represented by Secretary Brunner and Senator James Seward, a member of that club's directorate.

F. G. Warden, owner of the Newark club, was unable to come from Chicago, because of illness in his family. He commissioned Theodore Weiffenbach, manager of his Arcade Hotel in Springfield, to look after Newark's interests, and this was done. There was a good deal of gossip about Newark's next manager, and one story had it that the place will go to Charles O'Day, who worked for W. H. Watkins at both Newark and Springfield.

Billy Doyle, scout for the Cleveland American League club, stopped at the Neil yesterday on his way home from a conference with his employers. Al McClintock, Ironton manager, appeared for a talk with Father Schneider. George Wrigley, Lima manager last year, and First Baseman Nesser of his team, put in an appearance.

Sandy Murray was over from Newark. Ed. Staiger of Marion, M. A. Dunigan, Nate McCoy and Will Murphy were in the lobby crowd. In years past all have had connection with Ohio State clubs. Everybody wanted to know if Mr. Staiger was to be identified again, but it doesn't look as if his city will get into line, though nobody was willing to wager that Marion won't stir itself up yet.

DISCONCERTING.

"What does this nation need?" shouted the impassioned orator. "What does this nation require, if she steps proudly across the Pacific, if she strides boldly across the mighty ocean in her march of trade and freedom? I repeat, what does she need?"

SAVES ELDERLY PEOPLE FROM KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

Sleep Disturbing Bladder Weaknesses, Backache, Stiff Joints, Rheumatic Pains Disappear After a Few Doses Are Taken.

While people along in years are naturally more subject to weak kidneys, they can avoid the tortures of backache, and rheumatism, and be saved the annoyance of getting up at night with disagreeable bladder disorders, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly relieves the most severe and obstinate cases.

Croxone cures these conditions because it removes the cause. It is the most wonderful remedy ever devised for ridding the system of uric acid. It is entirely different from all other remedies. It is not like anything else ever used for the purpose. Croxone makes the kidneys filter the blood and sift out all the poisonous acids and waste matter that cause these troubles.

It soaks right in and cleans out the stopped up, inactive kidneys like water does a sponge, dissolves, and drives out every particle of uric acid and other poisonous impurities that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause rheumatism. It naturalizes the urine so it no longer irritates the bladder, overcomes unnecessary breaking of sleep and restores the kidneys and bladder to health and strength.

It matters not how long you have suffered, how old you are, or what else you have used. The very principle of Croxone is such that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work the minute you take it and relieves you the first time you use it, and all your misery and suffering soon disappear. You can secure an orginal package of Croxone at trifling cost from any firstclass druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if it fails in a single case.

PINK LADY REQUIRES IMMENSE STAGE CREW

An Advocate reporter dropped into the Auditorium theatre this morning to see what preparations were being made for the engagement of the "Pink Lady" Thursday evening. The reporter was informed by Manager Johnson that it was necessary to discontinue motion pictures the first three days of this week in order to get the stage in readiness for this big attraction. Stage Carpenter Frank Lippincott has orders to clear the stage of everything in sight and to hang about 20 sets of extra lines in order to allow the company to put up the entire production here. An ordinary attraction usually requires about 10 men to handle their scenery and effects but this mammoth production, (the largest seen in this city since the days of "Rob Roy") requires the services of 19 grips and fly men, 15 property men and 14 electricians and operators. Besides this enormous crew the company carries 9 working men which in all makes 57 men to handle this wonderfully large production. Newark theatre goers can judge from this what sort of an attraction they are going to see at the Auditorium on Thursday evening. It requires 7 cars to transport the company and they will arrive here by special train at 9:45 on the B. and O.

"Billy, the Kid."

The patrons of the Auditorium will have a chance to sit in judgment on the primitive western drama, "Billy, the Kid" on Friday, January

Scene from "BILLY THE KID," at Auditorium Friday evening, Jan. 24

24. "Billy, the Kid" has made the circle of melodramatic theatres throughout the country and is said to have given much satisfaction to those of the theatregoing public that desire the strenuous drama highly spiced with all the human emotions. In this respect "Billy, the Kid" fulfills its mission as it runs the entire gamut of human feelings. The story is said to be strong and coherent and while sensational to a degree, it is so cleverly worked out that here is an air of plausibility and probability in the whole plot. The main character is enacted by Berkeley Haswell, a young man who has a wide following in the popular priced houses and the supporting company is said to be adequate. Several novel scenic features are introduced and a highly diverting engagement is promised. Popular prices will prevail.

"The Pink Lady."

When the box office of the Auditorium opened this morning there was in evidence the biggest line that has been known here in years, as this marks the opening day of the sale for the engagement of Klaw & Erlanger's great international musical comedy hit, "The Pink Lady," which is booked for one performance at the local playhouse Thursday, January 23.

This is the engagement extraordinary of the season and the advance interest already demonstrates that the sale will be a record-breaking one.

A company of 100 people will be seen in the piece together with the Pink Lady orchestra that travels with the organization to bring out the manifold beauties of the delightful score which accompanies this well told story.

ABORN ENGLISH GRAND OPERA COMPANY

In addition to the favorites of the Aborn English Grand Opera company's double cast of last season, several noted artists have been added, greatly increasing the power and importance of the array of principals, while the chorus and orchestra have also been increased the entire organization now numbering one hundred persons, while four car loads of scenery, costumes and effects are carried. The list of principal artists include Dianette Alvina, Aida Hemmi, Henry Taylor, Elaine De Sellem, Harry Davies, Louis D'Angelo, Francis J. Tyler, Helen Campbell, Bernard Cantor, and others, with Arturo Papalardo as conductor and Karl Schroeder as stage director. This organization comes to the Auditorium Thursday, January 30, matinee and night, presenting "Madam Butterfly" in the afternoon and "Il Trovatore" in the evening.

The Orpheum

The Orpheum has one of the best shows of the season. Stewart and Raymond minstrel and comedy company sure proved a big success at all performances yesterday. The ladies band had a band concert at the Third street entrance to the Arcade. The band has nine members, all clever musicians and played that old time circus and minstrel music, the kind that makes the blood run fast in your veins.

Regarding the show the company rises in the musical first part and as the company carries special scenery and with the different electrical effects made a fine showing for a starter. There are twelve people in the company and all take part in the first part. Miss Lillian Raymond and Mr. Jack Gleason do the ends and they are clever comedians. The different girls appear in the first part in several chorus numbers and they are all nicely costumed in every way; the songs they sing are all the latest and up to date and the first part is well worth the price of admission.

Part II of the entertainment introduces Miss Julia Baker in her violin solos and the young lady is surely clever with this instrument. None better has ever played the Orpheum.

Part III is the California trio of musicians in which appears Mr. Stewart a very talented performer of many years experience. The boy is some musician; in one turn he plays two cornets at the same time and he is a wonder with the violin, and makes the instrument fairly talk.

Part IV La Drew and Fansheau Sisters did a clever song and dance turn. The Girlies are both clever.

Baby Gleason takes quite a part in the show as she sings two very nice songs and also dances. The baby is a wonder in her work. Mr. Howard Stewart is the director of the company. Mr. Charles Hopkirk is the musical director. Miss Raymond and Miss Stewart are members of the ladies orchestra in the first part. The prices for this show are just the same as always. 10 and 20 cents, seats reserved. And to avoid the big crowds order your seats by phone.

Maddened by Census Questions.

Serious results followed the taking of the first census in Japan years ago. Observing with approval the work of western countries, the authorities thought it advisable to take statistics of population and for that purpose sent out to all householders notices enjoining them to furnish them with full particulars of their families, age, sex, etc. This step was misconstrued in one of the villages, where suspicion was expressed that Japan was about to be sold or at least some of the people were to be sold to foreigners who were desirious of ascertaining the number of males, etc., before closing the bargain in order to find out what price to pay according to the quantity of blood that would be forthcoming. It was a Japanese belief the foreigners squeezed the blood from all who came into their power. Excited and enraged mobs soon collected and attacked the village offices, and it was some time before order could be restored.—Argonaut.

Curious Night Wells.

A curious form of water hole is found in the desert of Western Australia, dry by day, but yielding an abundant supply of water by night. The flow of water is preceded by hissings and sounds of rushing air. The phenomenon is discussed by Dr. Malcolm Maclaren, who has located and examined one of these wells. He found that the water supply occurred in a long, narrow trench, at the bottom of which was a thin plate of gneiss, separated by a cavity from the main rock mass beneath. Apparently the heat of the day causes this plate to expand in the form of a depression, into which the water retreats. When it cools and contracts at night it forces first air and then water back into the trench.—Scientific American.

Owes Life to This Consumption Remedy

It is beyond human power to perform miracles. The makers of Eckman's Alterative, a remedy for Consumption, do not claim that it will restore every one to perfect health, but so many have voluntarily testified it saved their lives, that all who have this dread disease should investigate and try it. It stops the night sweats, reduce fever, improve appetite and in very many cases prolong life. Read what it accomplished in this case:—

Catherine Ave. and Ave. of [illegible], [illegible]

"Gentlemen: In the year [illegible] I was taken with a heavy cold and a nasty cough and went to several doctors, including a specialist. Their medicines failed. I then went to the Catskills, but the cough still kept up. I stayed there a year and then went on a farm near Jersey City a very sick man.

"My brother then recommended Eckman's Alterative to me very highly. At first I would not consent to use it, owing to the fact that I had taken so many medicines without being helped in any way, but finally I consented. It is now nearly two years since I first took it. I am now cured and I date my cure that I would have been buried long ago if it had not been for Eckman's Alterative. I wish to thank you for the Godsend to me. Wherever I go I highly recommend the Alterative as I owe my life to it."

(Sworn Affidavit) JOS. J. TROTSCHER.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever; Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for more evidence. For sale by all leading druggists in Newark.

The Puma and Its Names.

The large American cat known as the puma is very rich in names, which fact leads to no little confusion in the minds of young students of natural history. The early Puritan settlers in New England named the animal the painter, meaning, of course, panther, because in shape and size it strongly resembles this fierce carnivore of the old world. It also received the name catamount, which was shortened down from cat of the mountain. The reddish color of the fur of some of the specimens suggested the name red tiger, while in certain places it was given the more majestic name of mountain lion. In South America one of the native names was cuguacuara, but we have very sensibly knocked off four of the six syllables and shortened it to cougar. The puma has such a wide range, being found from Canada to Patagonia, that naturally enough it receives a different name in the various countries and localities which it inhabits. Six names for one animal! No wonder readers of books of travel get confused.

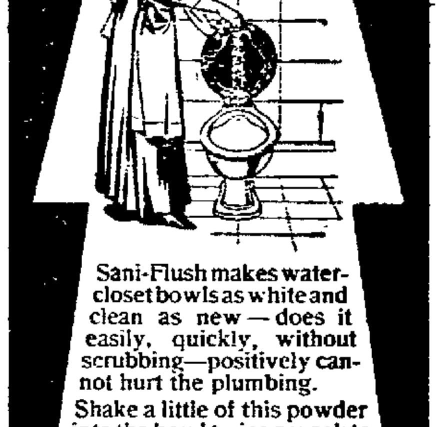

Her Fighting Clothes.

A certain matron alludes to a certain gown of hers as her "quarrel dress."

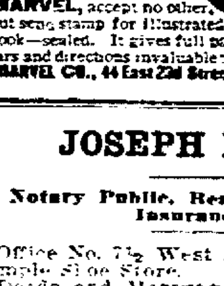

"I always wear it," she explains, "when I have had a quarrel with my husband."

"But why do you call it a quarrel dress?"

"Because it is the only gown I have that doesn't button in the back. Consequently I don't have to call on the old grouch to help me."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CHAPTER II.

An Affable Rogue.

The carriage containing the gentleman with the reversible cuffs drew up at the side entrance. Instantly the Arab guides surged and eddied round him; but their clamor broke against a composure as effective as granite. The roar was almost directly succeeded by a low gurgle, as of little waves receding. The proposed victim had not spoken a word; to the Arabs it was not necessary; in some manner, subtle and indescribable, they recognized a brother. He carried a long, cylindrical bundle wrapped in heavy paper variously secured by windings of thick twine. His regard for this bundle was one of tender solicitude, for he tucked it under his arm, cumbersome though it was, and waved aside the carriage-porter, who was, however, permitted to carry in the kit-bag.

The manager appeared. When comes he not upon the scene? His quick, calculating eye was not wholly assured. The stranger's homespun was travel-worn and time-worn, and of a cut popular to the season gone the year before. No fat letter of credit here, was the not unreasonable conclusion reached by the manager. Still, with that caution acquired by years of experience, which had culminated in what is known as Swiss diplomacy, he brought into being the accustomed salutatory smile and inquired if the gentleman had written ahead for reservation, otherwise it would not be possible to accommodate him.

"I telegraphed," crisply.

"The name, if you please?"

"Ryanne; spelled R-y-a double-n e. Have you ever been in County Clare?"

"No, sir." The manager added a question with the uplift of his eyebrows.

"Well," was the enlightening answer, "you pronounce it as they do there."

The manager scanned the little slip of paper in his hand. "Ah, yes; we have reserved a room for you, sir. The French style rather confused me." This was not offered in irony, or sarcasm, or satire; mining in a Swiss brain for the saving grace of humor is about as remunerative as the extraction of gold from sea-water. Nevertheless, the Swiss has the talent of swiftly subtracting from a confusion of ideas one point of illumination: there was a quality to the stranger's tone that decided him favorably. It was the voice of a man in the habit of being obeyed; and in these days it was the power of money alone that obtained obedience to any man. Beyond this, the same nebulous cogitation that had subdued the Arabs outside acted likewise upon him. Here was a brother.

"Mail?"

"I will see, sir." The manager summoned a porter. "Room 208."

The porter caught up the somewhat collapsed kit-bag, which had in all evidence received some rough usage in its time, and reached toward the roll. Mr. Ryanne interposed.

"I will see to that, my man," tersely.

"Yes, sir."

"Where is your guest-list?" demanded Mr. Ryanne of the manager.

"The head-porter's bureau, sir. I will see if you have any mail." The manager passed into his own bureau. It was rather difficult to tell whether this man was an American or an Englishman. His accent was western, but his manner was decidedly British. At any rate, that tone and carriage must be bastioned by good English sovereigns, or for once his judgment was at fault.

The porter dashed up-stairs. Mr. Ryanne, his bundle still snug under his arm, sauntered over to the head-porter's bureau and ran his glance up and down the columns of visiting-cards. Once he nodded with approval, and again he smiled, having discovered that which sent a ripple across his sleeping sense of amusement. Major Callahan, room 206; Fortune Chedsoye, 205; George P. A. Jones, 210.

"Hm! the Major smells of County Antrim and the finest whisky in all the isle. Fortune Chedsoye; that is a pleasing name; tinkling brooks, the waving green grasses in the meadows, the kine in the water, the fleeting shadows under the oaks; a pastoral, a bucolic name. To claim Fortune for mine own; a happy thought."

As he uttered these poesy expressions aloud, in a voice low and not unpleasing, for all that it was bantering, the head-porter stared at him with mingling doubt and alarm; and as if to pronounce these emotions mutely for the benefit of the other, he permitted his eyes to open their widest.

"Tut, tut; that's allright, porter. I am cursed with the habit of speaking my inmost thoughts. Some persons are afflicted with insomnia; some fall asleep in church; I think orally. Beastly habit, eh?"

The porter then understood that he was dealing not with a species of mild lunacy, but with that kind of light-hearted cynicism upon which the world (as porters know it) had set its approving seal. In brief, he smiled faintly; and if he had any pleasantry to pass in turn, the approach of the manager, now clothed metaphorically in deferentialism, relegated it to the limbo of things thought but left unsaid.

"Here is a letter for you, Mr. Ryanne. Have you any more luggage?"

"No." Mr. Ryanne smiled. "Shall I pay for my room in advance?"

"Oh, no, sir!" Ten years ago the manager would have blushed at having been so misunderstood. "Your room is 208."

"Will you have a boy show me the way?"

"I shall myself attend to that. If the room is not what you wish it may be exchanged."

"The room is the one I telegraphed for. I am superstitious to a degree. On three boats I have had fine staterooms numbered 208. Twice the number of my hotel room has been the same. On the last voyage there were 208 passengers, and the captain had made 208 voyages on the Mediterranean."

"Quite a coincident."

"Ah, if roulette could be played with such a certainty."

Mr. Ryanne sighed, hitched up his bundle, which, being heavy, was beginning to wear upon his arm, and signified to the manager to lead the way.

As they vanished round the corner to the lift, the head-porter studied the guest-list. He had looked over it a dozen times that day, but this was the first instance of his being really interested in it. As his chin was freshly shaven he had no stubble to stroke to excite his mental processes; so he fell back, as we say, upon the consoling ends of his abundant mustache. Curious; but all these persons were occupying or about to occupy adjacent rooms. There was truly nothing mysterious about it, save that the stranger had picked out these very names as a target for his banter. Fortune Chedsoye; it was rather an unusual name; but as she had arrived only an hour or so before, he could not distinctly recall her features. And then, there was that word bucolic. He mentally turned it over and over as physically he was wont to do with post-cards left in his care to mail. He could make nothing of the word, except that it smacked of the East Indian plague.

Ran His Glance Up and Down the Columns of Visiting Cards.

Here he was saved from further cerebral agony by a timely interruption. A man, who was not of bucolic persuasion either in dress or speech, urban from the tips of his bleached fingers to the bulb of his bibulous nose, leaned across the counter and asked if Mr. Horace Ryanne had yet arrived. Yes, he had just arrived; he was even now on his way to his room. The urban gentleman nodded. Then, with a finger slim and well-trimmed, he trailed up and down the guest-list.

"Ha! I see that you have the Duke of What-d'-ye-call from Germany here. I'll give you my card. Send it up to Mr. Ryanne. No hurry. I shall be in again after dinner."

He bustled off toward the door. He was pursy, well-fed, and decently dressed, the sort of a man who, when he moved in any direction, created the impression that he had an important engagement somewhere else or was paring minutes from time-tables. For a man in his business it was a clever expedient, deceiving all but those who knew him. He hesitated at the door, however, as if he had changed his mind in the twenty-odd paces it took to reach it. He stared for a long period at the elderly gentleman who was watching the feluccas on the river through the window. The white mustache and imperial stood out in crisp relief against the ruddy sunburn on his face. If he was aware of this scrutiny on the part of the pursy gentleman, he gave not the least sign.

The revolving door spun round, admitting a puff of outdoor air into the lounging-room. The elderly gentleman then smiled, and applied his thumb and forefinger to the waxen point of his imperial.

In the intervening time Mr. Ryanne entered his room, threw the bundle on the bed, sat down beside it, and read his letter. Shadows and lights moved across his face; frowns that hardened it, smiles that mellowed it. Women hold the trick of writing letters. Do they hate, their thoughts flash and burn from line to line. Do they love, 'tis lettered music. Do they conspire, the breadth of their imagination is without horizon. At best, man can indite only a polite business letter, his love-notes were adjudged long since a maudlin collection of loose sentences. In this letter Mr. Ryanne found the three parts of life.

"She's a good general; but hang these brimstone efforts of hers. She talks too much of heart. For my part, I prefer to regard it as a mere physical function, a pump, a motor, a power that gives action to the legs, either in coming or in going, more especially in going." He laughed. "Well, hers is the inspiration and hers is the law. And to think that she could plan all this on the spur of the moment, down to the minutest detail! It's a science." He put the letter away, slid out his legs and glared at the dusty tips of his shoes. "The United Romance and Adventure Company, Ltd., of New York, London, and Paris. She has the greatest gift of all, the sense of humor."

He rose and opened his kit-bag doubtfully. He rummaged about in the depths and at last straightened up with a mild oath.

"Not a pair of cuffs in the whole outfit, not a shirt, not a collar. Oh, well, when a man has to leave Bagdad the way I did, over the back fence, so to speak, linen doesn't count."

He drew down his cuffs, detached and reversed them, he turned his folding collar wrong-side out, and used the under side of the foot-rug as a shoe-polisher. It was the ingenious procedure of a man who was used to being out late nights, who made all things answer all purposes. This rapid and singularly careless toilet completed, he centered his concern upon the more vital matter of finances. He was close to the nadir: four sovereigns, a florin, and a collection of battered coppers that would have tickled the pulse of an amateur numismatist.

"No vintage to-night, my boy; no long, fat Havana, either. A bottle of stout and a few rags of plug-cut; that's the pace we'll travel this evening. The United Romance and Adventure Company is not listed at present. If it was, I'd sell a few shares on my own hook. The kind Lord knows that I've stock enough and to spare." He laughed again, but without the leaven of humor. "When the fool-killer snatches up the last fool, let rogues look to themselves; and fools are getting scarcer every day.

"Percival Algernon! O age of poets! I wonder, does he wear high collars and spats, or has she plumbed him accurately? She is generally right. But a man changes some in seven years. I'm an authority when it comes to that. Look what's happened to me in seven years! First, Horace, we shall dine, then we'll smoke our pipe in the billiard-room, then we'll softly approach Percival Algernon and introduce him to Sinbad. This independent excursion to Bagdad was a stroke on my part; it will work into the general plan as smoothly as if it had been grooved for the part. Sinbad. I might just as well have assumed that name: Horace Sinbad, sounds well and looks well." He mused in silence, his hand gently rubbing his chin; for he did possess the trick of talking aloud, in a low monotone, a habit acquired during periods of loneliness, when the sound of his own voice had succeeded in steadying his tottering mind.

What a woman, what a wife, she would have been to the right man! Odd thing, a man can do almost anything but direct his affections; they must be drawn. She was not for him; nay, not even on a desert isle. Doubtless he was a fool. In time she would have made him a rich man. Alack! It was always the one we pursued that we loved and never the one that pursued us.

"I'm afraid of her; and there you are. There isn't a man living who has gone back of that Mona Lisa smile of hers. If she was the last woman and I was the last man, I don't say." He hunted for a cigarette, but failed to find one. "Almost at the bottom, boy; the winter of our discontent, and no sun of York to make it glorious. Twenty-four hundred at carus, and to lose it like a tyro! Wallace has taught me all he knows, but I'm a booby. Twenty-four hundred, firm's money. It's a failing of mine, the firm's money. But, damn it all, I can't cheat a man at cards; I'd rather cut his throat."

He found his pipe, and a careful search of the corners of his coat-pockets revealed a meager pipeful of tobacco. He picked out the little balls of wool, the ground-coffee, the cloves, and pushed the charge home into the crusted bowl of his briar.

"To the devil with economy! A pint of burgundy and a perfecto if they hale us to jail for it. I'm dead tired. I've seen three corners in hell in the past two months. I'm going as far as four sovereigns will take me. . . . Fortune Chedsoye." His blue eyes became less hard and his mouth less defiant. "I repeat, the heart should be nothing but a pump. Otherwise it gets in the way, becomes an obstruction, a bottomless pit. Willpower, that's the ticket. I can face a lion without an extra beat, I can face the various countenances of death without an additional flutter; and yet, here's a girl who, when I see her or think of her, sends the pulse soaring from seventy-seven up to eighty-four. Bad business; besides, it's so infernally unfashionable. It's hard work for a man to keep his balance 'twixt the devil and the deep, blue sea; Gioconda on one side and Fortune on the other. Gioconda throws open windows and doors at my approach; but Fortune locks and bars hers, nor knocks at mine. That's the way it always goes.

"If a man could only go back ten years and take a new start. Ass!" balling his fist at the reflection in the mirror. "Snivel and whine over the bed of your own making. You had your opportunity, but you listened to the popping of champagne-corks, the mutter of cards, the inane drivel of chorus-ladies. You had a decent college record, too. Bah! What a guileless fool you were! You ran on, didn't you, till you found your neck in the loop at the end of the rope? And perhaps that soft-footed, estimable brother of yours didn't yank it taut as a hangman's? You heard the codicil; into one ear and out the other. Even then you had your chance; patience for two short years, and a million. No, a thousand times no. You knew what you were about, empty-headed fool! And today, two pennies for a dead man's eyes."

He dropped his fist dejectedly. Where had the first step begun? And where would be the last? In some drab corner, possibly; drink, morphine, or starvation; he'd never have the courage to finish it with a bullet. He was terribly bitter. Everything worth while seemed to have slipped through his fingers, his pleasure-loving fingers.

"Come, come, Horace; buck up. Still the ruby kindles in the vine. No turning back now. We'll go on till we come bang! against the wall. There may be some good bouts between here and there. I wonder what Gioconda would say if she knew why I was so eager for this game?"

He went down to dinner, and they gave him a table in an obscure corner, as a subtle reminder that his style was passe. He didn't care; he was hungry and thirsty. He could see nearly every one, even if only a few could see him. This was somewhat to his vantage. He endeavored to pick out Percival Algernon; but there were too many high collars, too many monocles. So he contented himself with a mild philosophical observance of the scene. The murmur of voices, rising as the wall of the violins sank, sinking as the wall rose; the tinkle of glass and china, the silver and linen, the pretty women in their rustling gowns, the delicate perfumes, the flash of an arm, the glint of a polished shoulder; this was the essence of life he coveted. He smiled at the thought and the sure knowledge that he was not the only wolf in the fold. Ay, and who among these dainty Red Riding Hoods might be fooled by a vulpine grandmother? Truth, when a fellow winnowed it all down to a handful, there were only fools and rogues. If one was a fool, the rogue got you, and he in turn devoured himself.

He held his glass toward the table-lamp, moved it slowly to and fro under his nose, epicureanly; then he sipped the wine. Something like! It ran across his tongue and down his throat in tingling fire, nectarious; and he went half way to Olympus, to the feet of the gods. For weeks he had lived in the vilest haunts, in desperate straits, his life in his open hands; and now once more he had crawled from the depths to the outer crust of the world. It did not matter that he was destined to go down into the depths again; so long as the spark burned he was going to crawl back each time. Damnable luck! He could have lived like a prince. Twenty-four hundred, and all in two nights, a steady stream of gold into the pockets of men whom he could have cheated with consummate ease, and didn't. A fine wolf, whose predatory instincts were still riveted to that obsolete thing called conscience!

"Conscience? Rot! Let us for once be frank and write it down as caution, as fear of publicity, anything but the white guardian-angel of the immortality of the soul. Heap up the gold, Apollyon; heap it up, higher and higher, till not a squeak of that still small voice that once awoke the chap in the Old Testament can ever again be heard. Now, no more retrospection, Horace; no more analysis; the vital question simmers down to this: If Percival Algernon balks, how far will four sovereigns go?"

TELLS HOW GUARD BEAT AGED PATIENT

Columbus, Jan. 21.—In a hearing held by Coroner Benkert today, Guard C. L. Chatfield of the Columbus State Hospital, testified that John Barnhart, 53, the patient who died Sunday, met his death at the hands of Guard Oral Best, who is now under arrest pending the filing of a manslaughter charge against him. Chatfield testified that when Best ordered the patients in the infirm ward to take the exercise Sunday, Barnhart was sitting in a reclining chair and refused to move. He charged that Best secured a baseball bat and hit the patient across the chest, poked him in the ribs and then compelled him, with other patients, to crawl 25 feet on his hands and knees.

"You are killing him," said Chatfield to Best, while the beating was in progress.

"No, I'm not," best is said to have replied. "He would be better off dead, anyway."

Coroner Benkert is expected to make his report on the case tomorrow and file a charge of murder against Best.

WON'T SPEND $20,000,000 FOR RIVER RESERVOIR

Washington, Jan. 21.—Unfavorable reports from the army engineers on a $20,000,000 impounding reservoir project for the headwaters of the Ohio, Monongahela and Allegheny Rivers, was sent today to the house. A special board held that the limited extent to which the proposed reservoirs would aid navigation and control flood waters would not warrant the government in spending $20,000,000 on the project.

INDIANS' ELECTRIC PLANT.

Tribe Will Also Have Sewers, Waterworks and Fire Protection.

Victoria, B. C.—The Indians of the Queen Charlotte islands have already a national reputation for enterprise, but it was left to the Skidegates, whose village lies at the southern end of Vancouver island, to back the most ambitious undertaking ever projected by a coast Indian nation.

This year they propose installing an electric system for lighting their village and furnishing power for a variety of industrial enterprises to be carried forward on co-operative principles. They will also put in a modern sewer system, waterworks and complete fire protection equipment.

The Skidegates are just a little ahead of the whites of British Columbia in the encouragement of the love of art, offering a tribal prize annually for the best specimen of original composition. Their band enjoys the reputation of being the best Indian band in America. Its honorary president is H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, governor general of Canada.

Are You Subject to Constipation

Here is a Simple Way of Correcting It Instantly Before It Becomes Chronic.

MRS. G. B. PRUITT.

Very few people go through life without some time or other being troubled with constipation. Thousands injure themselves by the use of strong cathartics, salt mineral waters, pills and similar things. They have temporary value in some cases, it is true, but the good effect is soon lost, and the more one takes of them the less effective they become.

A physic or purgative is seldom necessary, and much better and more permanent results can be obtained by using a scientific remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It does not hide behind a high sounding name, but is what it is represented to be, a mild laxative medicine. It is so mild that thousands of mothers give it to tiny infants, and yet it is so compounded, and contains such definite ingredients that it will have equally good effect when used by a person suffering from the worst chronic constipation. In fact, among the greatest endorsers of Syrup Pepsin are elderly people who have suffered for years and found nothing to benefit them until they took Syrup Pepsin.

It is a fact that millions of families have Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house, homes like those of Mrs. G. B. Pruitt, Berea, Ky., who used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as a laxative tonic. Mrs. Pruitt writes that it so strengthened and cleansed her system that she was quickly relieved of a severe cough which had troubled her for months. The special value of this grand laxative tonic is that it is suited to the needs of every member of the family. It is pleasant-tasting, mild and non-griping. Unlike harsh physics it works gradually and in a very brief time the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to do their work naturally again, when all medicines can be dispensed with.

You can obtain a bottle at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar. The latter size is usually bought by families who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money refunded.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

NO. 13 IN THE ARCHBALD CASE

The Superstitious May Find Shivers In This Record.

Washington. — Ex-Judge Robert W. Archbald, formerly of the United States commerce court, may not be superstitious, but he has reason to dread the cabalistic number thirteen. It was on Feb. 13 nearly a year ago that the formal complaint was made to President Taft by Commissioner Meyer of the interstate commerce commission against the respondent. On July 13 a message was received in the senate from the house saying that the house had impeached Judge Archbald. There were thirteen articles of impeachment in all, and the vote was taken on the thirteenth hour of the thirteenth day of the month in the year 1913.

The respondent was found guilty on the thirteenth general article, and the sum of the numbers of the other separate articles on which he was convicted, taken in their numerical order, totals thirteen.

WAS PLANNING ESCAPE FROM COUNTY JAIL

"I'll never leave here alive," says Edward Roberts, the convict who escaped from Clinton, N. Y., prison and who is now in the county jail here awaiting the coming of the prison officers, who will return him to the prison from which he escaped on November 21.

Roberts was captured in Utica on Friday night by Marshal W. A. Hobbs and brought to Newark Saturday morning for safe-keeping. As soon as he had been locked up in the local jail Roberts, who is only 28 years old, told the prisoners confined there that he would never be taken back to Clinton alive. At the same time he began to make plans to attempt an escape. All this has been tipped off to the jail officers and in consequence a close watch is being kept on the man.

Monday's mail brought a letter to Sheriff Frank Slabaugh from Harry Kaiser, agent and warden of the Clinton prison, asking that Roberts be held until an officer arrived. The letter said that requisition papers were in the course of preparation.

This morning the sheriff received the following telegram from Joseph F. Scott, superintendent of state prisons of New York:

"The retention by you of Edward Roberts 1042 Clinton Prison, recently arrested in your town, until an officer with requisition papers can arrive to claim him will be greatly appreciated by this department. Roberts is an escaped prisoner and we desire his return here very much."

Later in the day the sheriff received a telegram from E. C. Farrington, probation officer of Clinton Prison, stating that he was on the way to Newark with the necessary much."

Roberts, who was captured by Utica's vigilant marshal has served time in Columbus, Mansfield and Kingston, Canada, prisons.

ONLY "CASCARETS" IF CONSTIPATED

Salts, Calomel and Cathartic Pills are Violent—They Act on Bowels as Pepper Acts On Nostrils.

Take a Cascaret tonight and thoroughly cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. A 10 cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action, a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

WORDS OF COUNSEL

When you see a man is busy, doing sums or writing notes, don't go up and drive him dizzy with your whiskered anecdotes; for the man who's bored and worried when by business he is hurried, may rear up, incensed and flurried and deprive you of your goats. When you see a man is brooding over troubles of his own, when you hear his grief protruding from his system, in a groan, don't put up a line of wailings touching your own ills and ailings; don't indulge in roars and railings—let the weary man alone. When you see a man is cheerful, as he tries his way to make, don't go up with forecasts fearful that will make his bosom ache, do not say his course is folly in this world of melancholy; if he finds the old world jolly, let him grin, for heaven's sake. If you see a man is married, do not boast that you are not; for the burden he has carried makes his spirit sore and hot; bearing much, he'll never bear less; if you stir up envy carelessness, he may claw you till your hairless, with a sudden fury fraught.

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

By O. Terrence.

LE GALLIENNE, 47 MONDAY, BEGAN LIFE AS A BUSINESS MAN

Liverpool, the great commercial and shipping city of England, is about the last spot on the map one would think that a bard would choose as a birthplace, yet it was there that Richard Le Gallienne was born 47 years ago Monday, Jan. 20, 1866. For a time, indeed, Mr. Le Gallienne could not resist the influences of his workaday environment. After graduating from Liverpool College, he became a business man, and for seven years was engaged in prosaic trade. Then he became a journalist in Liverpool, London and New York and eventually found his forte in writing poetry and romances.

It was doubtless foreordained despite the [illegible] of Liverpool [illegible] that Mr. Gallienne should woo the muses. His name is poetical, and in appearance he is the ideal bard, with a handsome, intellectual, romantic face, topped with a thatch of long, luxuriant hair parted in the middle. More important, he can write real poetry, when he chooses, although he does not always do so. In addition, he is a fickle lover, as singers always are and [illegible] been. His second wife [illegible] was Miss Julie Norregaard, of an old Danish family, sued for a divorce in 1911, naming a fair unknown. It was alleged that the poet had registered at a hotel with the young woman under the name of Pagan Wasteneys, a character in his novel "Love Letters of a King."

Despite his fickleness, Mr. Le Gallienne is a gallant defender of the fair sex. When William Watson, the English poet, wrote "The Woman With the Serpent's Tongue," directed against Mrs. Asquith, Le Gallienne replied with "The Poet of the Coward's Tongue." As poetry it was not sublime, but it angered Watson to the point that there were threats of a duel between the bards. But, alas! it was not to be.

In the score or two of volumes bearing the name of Le Galienne, doubtless there is much that will survive, but nothing more sublime than the poem "[illegible] War":

War I abhor,
And yet how sweet
The sound along the marching street
Of drum and fife! And I forget
Wet eyes of widows, and forget
Broken old mothers, and the whole
Dark butchery without a soul
Without a soul save this brief drink
Of heady music sweet as death;
And even my peace-abiding feet
Go marching with the marching street.
For yonder, yonder goes the fife,
And what care I for human life?
The tears fill my astonished eyes
And my full heart is like to break;
And yet 'tis all embannered lies,
A dream those little drummers make.
Oh, it is wickedness to clothe
Yon hideous grinning thing that stalks
Hidden in music, like a queen
That in a garden of glory walks,
Till good men love the thing they loathe.

Two prominent Washington lawmakers will be [illegible] recipients of birthday congratulations from their colleagues Monday. Furnifield McLendel Simons, United States senator from North Carolina, was born in that state [illegible] years ago today. He is in line to become chairman of the finance committee, where tariff laws are considered in the senate. John Lawson Burnett, Alabama congressman, chairman of the immigration and naturalization committee of the House, was born on the same day as Senator Simons. He has lately come into prominence by advocating the exclusion of illiterate immigrants and through his opposition to a bigger navy for Uncle Sam.

TO CONSOLIDATE STATE BUREAUS

Measures Based on Better Efficiency Prepared.

TWO PLANS CONSIDERED

Ohio's Proposed Primary Election Law Is Last Word In Progressive Legislation—Will Relegate Time-Honored State Conventions to Political Scrap Heap—Two Workmen's Compensation Measures Ready For Legislative Hopper.

Columbus, O., Jan. 21.—(Special.)—If the present plans of administration leaders are carried out two bills, one for the consolidation of all the departments of agriculture and the other for the merging of the different labor departments that are scattered about the state house and Columbus office buildings, will be introduced next week.

Attaches of the attorney general's office are collaborating with men who have studied agricultural and labor problems in the drafting of the measures, which are designed to put an end to the perennial jealousies and duplicating of work that has marred the work of these branches of the state government.

The labor departments will be merged under what is known as the industrial commission law, the board to consist of either three or five members, while each subdepartment will be under the control of an expert in the line of work allotted to the subordinate division.

Two plans are being considered for the reorganization of the agricultural departments. One embraces the federal plan with a single man, known as the commissioner of agriculture, in control of all the departments; while the other calls for a commission of three to guide these activities. Favor is given to the commission plan, although that may not be the form in which the measure will go through the legislature.

CHARLES T. GALLAGHER.
Eleventh District Senator Hails From Mt. Sterling.

Senate and house committees have agreed to report favorably upon the bill for the consolidation of the agriculture departments and the measure is expected to have smooth sailing. Representative W. E. Brown of Clinton county, speaking for the house committee, of which he is a member, and for the senate committee, said: "State departmental work for agriculture has expanded until the experimental, educational and demonstration work intersect and overlap, causing duplication of work to such an extent that public sentiment demands some revision of the present system.

"The board of administration has made its work so unqualifiedly successful in the past year that the plan of placing the agricultural departments in the hands of one central body, a commission, meet with approval."

While no expression has been obtained from the labor committees of both houses, the persuasive powers of Governor Cox are expected to bring them in line for the merger proposal.

The workingmen's compensation act, or rather two of them, one by the state board and the other by private companies, will be introduced early in the week. The governor stands for compulsory insurance in the interest of the workingmen, but he desires to put upon the general assembly the responsibility of driving private concerns from the state. The executive points out that with the commonwealth and private companies competing for business, lower rates might be obtained for employers and their employes. Under such conditions, if the private companies should undersell the state board, it would be plain something was wrong with the administration of the state fund, while the commonwealth would get the business should the private companies make a lower rate.

The principal provisions of the state board's bill provide that all employers having five or more employes must contribute to the fund. The state and every political subdivision must contribute 1 per cent of their total pay roll. This would give state protection to policemen and firemen and all subordinates employed by the subdivisions. All premiums must be paid by the employers. Employes shall pay nothing. This gives the working people a decided advantage, for at present they contribute 10 per cent of the state fund, while employers pay 90 per cent. Any employer who refuses to pay into the fund may be sued for the amount of the premium he should pay. No contract between an employer and employe shall controvert the provisions of the law. An employe whose employer is insured under the fund must accept compensation from the state, and is deprived of the right to sue, unless the injury is the result of a violation of the law by the employer.

This week will mark the introduction of many of the big administration measures. It is doubtful whether any other week in the history of Ohio general assemblies was marked by the initiation of so many measures of statewide importance as will be brought forth in the next four days for the consideration of the solons.

Among the more important will be the statewide primary measure which is being drafted by Assistant Secretary of State J. H. Sechrest and Clerk John Cassidy of the house. When this measure is enacted Ohio will step into the very front ranks of progressiveness in election affairs. The best features of the primary laws in other states will be incorporated into the proposed law, and in no other commonwealth will the powers of the people be broader or more extensive. The proposed law will provide for the direct election of United States senators, all state, county and municipal officials. It also will carry a provision for the direct election of delegates to the national political conventions.

The bill when enacted will bring about the abolition of the most picturesque institution of American politics—the state convention. This will bring regret to all who have participated actively in politics in the past, for the stirring, exciting and interesting struggles, the wild-eyed, heaving, puffing crowds, the swells of applause, enthusiasm and ringing music have all been highly enjoyed. But the freedom from manipulation and the right to directly choose their own nominees, which the proposed bill will give to the people, are things to be desired more than play in politics, so there will be little complaint about the transition from the convention to the primary system of making nominations. This is a platform measure, and no trouble is anticipated in putting it through both houses.

Last week, for the first time in the history of the university, the commonwealth, got some direct and practical aid from that institution, when Governor Cox had Dean John J. Adams of the university law school and Professor William Herbert Page whose books on corporations and wills are recognized authorities, collaborated with Special Counsel C. C. Marshall of the attorney general's office and General Oliver H. Hughes of the public service commission, in drafting a bill to improve upon the present law governing utilites.

The four are working with the purpose in view of correcting these conditions:

First. The delays in the law which practically nullify the action of the commission.

Second. The inevitable accumulation of work in the two departments which have to do with inquiries into railroad wrecks installation of safety devices, etc., and which looks after the complaints of shippers. So much time is taken up in hearings with respect to recapitalization of companies that these two important branches of the work are very much interfered with. Ohio is a state of such commercial resources that the shipper should have a man in charge of this work exclusively. The loss of life from the operation of railroads is so great that the man in charge of this bureau should also be free from the interference of other labors.

Third. The board is much behind in hearings now. Applications made more than a year ago, in some instances, are still without action, notwithstanding the board has been performing labors almost beyond human possibilities.

A rule of litigation that has given the utilities commission much trouble is that whereby companies complaining of orders have 60 days in which to appeal from the commission's decisions or rulings, and after the case is filed it proceeds on error and appeal as in civil cases. Thus the hands of the state board are tied up from one to two years.

In drafting the new utilities bill advantage will be taken of the [illegible] Peck constitutional amendment which gives the supreme court such recovery jurisdiction of the proceedings of administrative officers as may be provided by law. Instead of 60 days to make a court attack, but 10 days will be given, and then the controversy must be taken direct to the supreme court. As a result of this provision the people will be able to get justice a great deal quicker from the utilities commission than heretofore and the issuing of orders can be expedited.

SNAPSHOTS BY BARBARA BOYD

The Admonition To Be Good

"DON'T play with naughty boys," the mother said, as she buttoned up her little son's coat, put on his cap, and lovingly looked after him, as he dashed out into the street.

Then she turned her attention to her visitor. In a little while, she rose and went to the window.

"I declare," she said impatiently. "There is James playing with those Nelson boys. I've told him time and time again, he's not to play with them." She threw open the window. "James, come here."

James stood undecided a moment. But finally, he yielded.

"Didn't I tell you not to play with naughty boys?" she said, as he came reluctantly in. "You're a bad, bad boy. Take off your hat and coat, and sit in that chair for punishment."

James howled.

"The idea! A big boy like you crying. And before a visitor, too! Aren't you ashamed of yourself! Now stop at once."

And so it went.

Her method of training was altogether one of prohibition. James was eternally told what not to do, but never why. And being a reasoning animal, even though yet a small one, he rebelled.

He had no conception of why he should not play with these boys beyond the fact that they were "naughty." This meant nothing to him. The one fact that stood out more distinctly than all others was that he had more fun with them than with any other boys. And in comparison with this, "Naughty" with no explanation, was pale and anaemic.

He'll probably grow up to be a wilful, disobedient boy, unless some good within himself asserts itself, or other influences shape him.

For a child is a reasoning being, and his reasoning faculties are ready for action long before many a mother gives them credit for being. And if the mother doesn't appeal to these faculties and range them on her side, they'll go over to the enemy.

A child also has much love and good in him. And had this mother explained in a reasonable way why she didn't want her son to play with these boys, he probably wouldn't have done it. If she had gone about it in the right way she could have taken the desire to play with them away from him. She could also have awakened his love and loyalty for her, so that these would have joined in the fight to keep him from evil associates.

With a bright, active child, full of life, mere prohibition, or the simple admonition to be good, is seldom enough to keep his little feet in the right path. Right and wrong are too abstract for his childish mind. But give this mind something in the way of reason to engage it, awaken the love and the good that is in him, and he'll walk proudly and self-reliantly in the path whither he is sent.

Barbara Boyd.

A Good Excuse.

After the Duke of Wellington's victorious campaigns the University of Oxford complimented the duke himself and his principal officers by conferring upon them the honorary and not very appropriate degree of doctor of civil laws. At that time the fees were heavy, and one of the distinguished soldiers who had gathered more honor than profit in the wars declined the proffered degree in the following verse:

Oxford, I know you wish me well,
But prithee let me be.
I can't, alas, be D. C. L.

USELESS EFFORTS MADE IN SENATE

Members Present Dozens of Hopeless Bills.

IMPORTANT MATTERS HELD

Many Measures Pressed Forward During Short Session Which Should Have Come Up In Last Session. Senator McLean Chides Colleagues on Courtesy Rules.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Jan. 21.—[Special.]—It 's interesting to see the earnestness with which senators press forward with different measures in this short session of congress when there is little er, virtually, no hope of them ever becoming laws. But that is always the way of the senate. The time to have considered and voted upon the amendment limiting the presidential term to six years and one term was in the last session. The time to have acted upon the agricultural educational bill was in that same session, and the same is true of the bill to protect game birds.

In a short session, when every man is anxious to get his own measures through, when the appropriations committee is always ready to stand in the way with supply bills and block discussion, and when the time of the house is about all parceled out, it is almost impossible to get action upon any measures such as have been mentioned.

Chided the Senate.

Senator McLean of Connecticut, who had charge of the game bill, chided the senate upon its courtesy methods. He said that courtesy seemed to be a way of blocking business, and many important public measures failed because courtesy compelled the senate to wait until a senator was ready to talk. Senator Cummins has secured consent to vote on the six year term bill, but, as it will be complicated with a provision to change the date of the inauguration, it is doubtful if it will get through before congress ends.

Senator Page has been struggling with the educational bill, which, from the way it is treated, is one of those measures which everybody is for but nobody wants. Like the Kenyon liquor bill, it may pass the senate late enough in the session to insure defeat in the house. The efforts of the Vermont senator deserve better success.

Want to Get Under Cover.

When the parcel post law was under consideration certain users of the mails protested vigorously about coming under its provisions, notably distributers of seeds and book publishers. They could see that the flat rate they were granted under the third class on long hauls was especially advantageous over the zone rate. But something has happened. They find that in most cases the zone rate parcel post will be much better, and they want to get under cover. They find, as one congressman explained it, that cabbage plants pay just double what the grown cabbage would pay. Booksellers find that, while they might have to pay a little more on the long hauls, they would more than make it up on the short hauls.

Exposes the "Bunk."

With keen sarcasm and in fancy flights of oratory filled with classic lore Congressman Rucker of Colorado sometimes exposes the "bunk" in the performances of his fellow members of the house. Sometimes it may be the tariff, sometimes the pensions, but whatever the occasion he rises to it and certainly hits right and left. So subtle is the sarcasm that his victims cannot take offense, although they squirm under his lash.

Rebuked by Warren.

Senator Warren runs more appropriation bills than any other man in congress, and when Senator Jones objected to the method he proposed for considering one of them the Wyoming senator demanded the full reading of the bill. Then Senator Lodge asked consent to dispense with the reading in the interest of saving time. "If senators think they can handle the appropriation bills better than the committee they had better take charge of them," said Warren in a tone that showed his resentment.

Roberts' Increased Mail.

A merry man on a New York paper saw a statement, figured out by some statistical sharp in the treasury, that there was $3,350,727,780 in circulation in the United States, which, divided among 94,480,000 people in the United States, was $34.72 per capita. The merry man said that every person was entitled to that amount and that by writing to the shipping clerk of the United States mint would receive that sum.

The article was "syndicated" in many papers, and as a consequence Director Roberts of the mint bureau has been swamped with letters asking for the money. "I am a widow and need it at once," writes one woman. "Please send mine in dollar bills and pennies," directs another correspondent. "Give me mine in three ten-dollar bills, four ones and the rest in small change," says another. Some of the requests are pathetic, indicating that the disappointment will be keen when the writers find it was all the joke of a merry newspaper man.

This Home-Made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You

Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply at Small Cost.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough instantly, and will usually cure the most stubborn case in 24 hours. This recipe makes a pint—enough for a whole family. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $2.50.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles, sore lungs, etc. There is nothing better. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

ONE TOE, $1,262.50.

That's Young Woman's Valuation. $1,000 For an Eye.

Provo, Utah.—What is the value of a young woman's toe? This question will be answered in the Fourth district court, where suit was filed by Miss Irene Berry of Springville against Dr. F. A. Graham, a dentist and chiropodist. For the loss of two toes Miss Berry asks $2,525. She says that she applied to the dentist for relief from two corns. He removed the corns, but it later became necessary to remove the toes.

HOW TO GROW HAIR ON A BALD HEAD

BY A SPECIALIST.

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness and is also unequaled for restoring gray hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germs. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay rum, 6 ounces; Lavona de Composee, 2 ounces; Menthol Crystals, one-half drachm. If you wish it perfumed, add half to one teaspoonful of To-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists, and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Do not apply to the face or where hair is not wanted. (Advertisement.)

A Hero in a Lighthouse.

For years J. S. Donahue, So. Haven, Mich., a civil war captain, as a lighthouse keeper, averted awful wrecks, but a queer fact is, he might have been a wreck himself if Electric Bitters had not prevented. "They cured me of kidney trouble and chills," he writes, "after I had taken other so-called cures for years, without benefit, and they also improved my sight. Now, at seventy, I am feeling fine." For dyspepsia, indigestion, all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're without equal. Try them. Only 50c at F. D. Hall's.

TOO HOSPITABLE.

One day an inspector of a New York tenement house found four families living in one room, chalk lines being drawn across in such a manner as to mark out a quarter for each family.

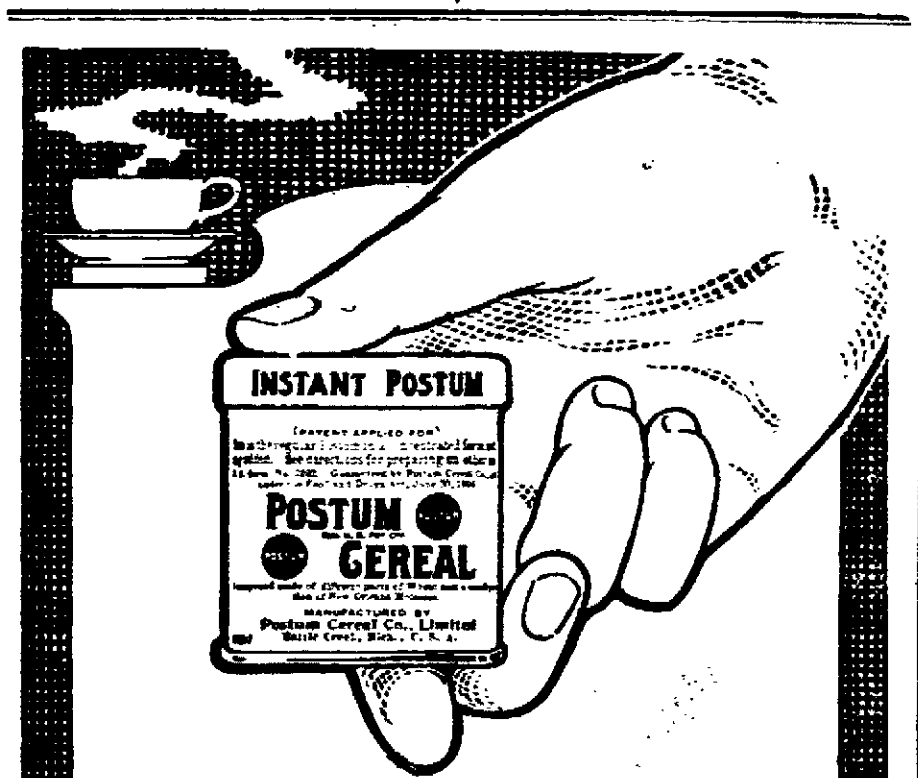

"How do you get along here?" inquired the inspector.

"Very well," was the reply. "Only the man in the farthest corner keeps boarders."—Everybody's Magazine.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

An ice bridge was formed across Niagara, the first in seven years. In Montreal water froze in fire hose in use on a burning building.

It's Due To Exams.
If you see a harsh, worried look on the faces of the High school students, "there's a reason." The semi-annual examinations start today and it is reported that the midnight oil was burning brightly until a late hour in more than one home in the city until pretty near daylight. The English department has, it is said, sanctioned the use of the word "flunk" as the future (possibly imperfect) of the very "examine."

Brotherhood Meeting.
The Brotherhood of the First Presbyterian church met in regular session last evening and considered several matters of interest, among them being the affiliation of the brotherhood in the proposed church voters' league recently advocated. Arrangements toward this affiliation will be made during the next few days. The special feature of the social program last evening was the reading of a paper by former Representative Robert S. Howard on "Politics in the Church," which was accorded the hearty applause and commendation of the fifty or more men who attended the meeting.

Big Sale for "The Pink Lady."
The reserved seat sale for "The Pink Lady" was opened this morning and a double line extending from the box office to the street greeted Manager Johnson when he raised the window. A great many seats were reserved and the dress circle and balcony were quickly reserved. There are quite a few good seats left, but Manager Johnson advises that those who wish to see the big attraction and have not yet called for tickets had better look after it immediately.

Ladies Auxiliary.
Special meeting of Ladies Auxiliary, Knights of St. John, this evening at 7:30. Installation of officers.

Drunks Fined.
Three drunks arrested during the night were fined in police court on Tuesday morning by Mayor Swartz. All were ordered committed.

Poultry Meeting.
A meeting of the Newark Poultry Association was held Monday night, but on account of the heavy rain, only a few members of the association were present. No business was transacted.

Chickens Stolen.
Mrs. Holtschulte of 74 Leroy St., reported to the police department on Tuesday morning that thieves entered her hennery Monday night and stole five chickens. She states that a number of similar raids on hen roosts have been made in that vicinity in the past few weeks.

Case Dismissed.
Charged with trespassing on the grounds of the American Bottle Company, Arthur Beasley and Carl Weaver were arrested last night and lodged at the city prison. This morning they were dismissed from custody, there being no evidence against them. The affidavits were filed by officers in the company's employ.

Message of Death.
J. M. Kennedy of Gainor avenue, received a message this morning announcing the death of his wife, a former resident of Newark. Her death occurred in Oklahoma. Funeral and burial will take place in Bartlesville, Okla.

New Electric Sign.
A handsome electric sign has been installed at the Brown cafe located on East Main and Webb street. This is the first electric sign to be erected in East Newark and Mr. Brown has been the recipient of many compliments for his enterprise.

Comic Foreign Paper.
Mr. Augustin Sissea is in receipt of illustrated papers from his native country of Bulgaria, published at the capital, Bucurest. The paper is of a comic nature with illustrations, similar to those in this country and some of the work is indeed clever. Incidents of the Balkan war are also cleverly caricatured.

INEXPENSIVE BEAUTY AIDS
By Mme. D'Mlle.

"Did you know Mother's Salve, an old-fashioned home remedy, has grown in popular demand so that it is sold in prepared form in drug stores? It is splendid for headaches, neuralgia, rheumatism, sore muscles, bruises, stiff neck, or pains and aches in back or joints.

"You can make a true complexion beautifier at home at little expense by dissolving an original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel. Gently massage the face, neck and arms with this lotion each morning and it will correct facial blemishes, muddy spots, etc., and make the skin fresh, fair and lovely.

"Dry shampooing cleans the scalp, vitalizes the hair roots, and eliminates danger of catching cold from washing the head. Just mix four ounces orris root and an original package of therox, sprinkle a little on the head, and brush out thoroughly. Therox removes all dust, dandruff and excess oil and leaves the hair bright, fluffy and beautifully lustrous.

"Women humiliated by superfluous hair or fuzz eradicate these blemishes by applying a paste made by mixing a little powdered delatone and water. Cover the hairs with the paste, leave on two minutes, wash off, wash the skin and the hairs will be gone."

BRICKS THAT WILL LAST THROUGH AGES

Lost Art of Roman Brickmakers Said to Be Discovered.

Rome.—Giuseppe Giovannetti, a young Roman, who had already discovered a pigment for frescoes whose resisting power surpasses that of the ancients, has now discovered the lost art of brickmaking as practiced by the Romans 2,000 years ago. This is the opinion of experts who have tested bricks made by the Giovannetti system, which resists firedamp, excessive cold and every other destructive element and apparently would last unimpaired for endless ages.

The secret has been given to the Italian government. Experiments being made with the new bricks tend rather to confirm than shake the most exaggerated reports of their durability. Building experts declare that a new era has dawned in the construction of large buildings. Contracts being made for all the new dwellings in Tripoli contain a clause stipulating that these bricks must be used.

Logical.
"John, dear, why are some women called Amazons?"

"Well, my dear, you remember our geographies said the Amazon has the largest mouth"—

But she went out and slammed the door before he could say any more.—London Mail.

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM BELL JR.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Bell, widow of the late Hon. William Bell Jr., died Monday night at 11 o'clock, at her home in the Henrietta, at Church and Fifth streets, following a week's illness of paralysis. She was 75 years and 9 months old. Before her marriage she was Miss Elizabeth Ocheltree, daughter of James M. and Martha Ocheltree. She was married to William Bell Jr. in 1856, and was a life-long resident of Newark except for the time her husband was secretary of state and representative from Franklin county in the lower house of the legislature. Three children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Bell, S. C., now of Columbus; Mrs. Virginia B. Merion, at home, and Mrs. Margaret B. Knox, who died in Columbus in 1899. Mrs. Bell was an active member of the First Presbyterian church.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, at the home. All friends are invited. Interment at Columbus.

EMMA BELL DRUMM.

Mrs. Emma Bell Drumm was born on May 6, 1861, and died Jan. 17, 1913, aged 51 years, 8 months and 11 days. Her husband and four surviving sons merit the sympathy of the host of friends and acquaintances who knew the deceased as a woman of splendid Christian disposition, and one to whom the choicest of heavenly diadems must be meted. Those surviving her are her sons, Harry Drumm of Hazelhurst, Pa., and Charles, Russell and Burton Drumm, who still reside at the Newark home, and her grieving mate, Edward Drumm.

FUNERAL OF RALPH MEIKLE.

Baxter & Bradley for the kindness they manifested in our hour of trouble. Edward Drumm and Children.

Foods—Pure, Delicious, Wholesome

Fresh From Heinz Model Kitchens

It does make a difference, Madam—the name of the prepared foods you buy.

You want not only to know that they save you care in preparation—but that they are of acceptable character, clean made, pure, wholesome and appetizing.

And you want the real, natural "home-made" flavor that can be attained only by "home-made" methods.

It would do your heart good to see Heinz Pure Foods prepared. 50,000 visitors do see them prepared every year. Heinz Kitchens are always open to the public.

The Heinz way of insuring the highest purity and quality begins with the selection of the materials—guards every step of every process—till Heinz 57 Varieties are finally sealed and offered, with all their freshness and flavor, to people who want the best.

Just an example: There is no law that compels a food manufacturer to bake the beans he offers. Most beans sold in cans are merely steamed or boiled. Heinz Baked Beans are oven-baked with dry heat, like pies or biscuit. The water is baked out—the nutriment baked in. That is the why of their golden brown color, their rich, appetizing flavor. There is a law that prevents the labeling of boiled or steamed beans "baked." Heinz Beans are baked, and labeled "Baked."

Four kinds—With and without Pork and Tomato Sauce. And Baked Red Kidney Beans.

Heinz 57 Varieties
Pure Foods
Sauces and Condiments

Then there's Heinz Tomato Ketchup. The rich, snappy goodness of selected tomatoes picked ripe and prepared without Benzoate of Soda. Unequaled flavorer for roasts, chops, fish and game.

Heinz Pure Vinegar and Heinz Pickles—Sweet and Sour—are too well known to need description. Purity—highest quality—always.

That's just as true of Heinz Prepared Soups, Fruit Preserves, Peanut Butter, etc., etc.

No matter what Heinz product you buy, you know you can rely absolutely upon the Heinz name and Heinz money-back guarantee. They protect you.

Make sure that you get Heinz food products. They are worth insisting on.

FIRST THINGS

The first paper mill in New England, the beginning of an important industry, was established by Daniel Henchman, born in Boston 224 years ago today. It was not the first of its kind on the continent, however, the pioneer mill for the manufacture of paper having been built in 1690 by William Rittinghuysen, at a point within the city limits of Philadelphia. The first paper mills in England were erected at Dartfort in 1580. The first manufacturers of paper in Europe were the French and Dutch. Paper-making by machinery was first suggested by Louis Robert, who sold his model to Didot, the great printer, who perfected the apparatus, with the assistance of Fourdrinier. The latter obtained an English patent in 1801, and gradually the paper industry was revolutionized.

The first number of the London Daily News was issued sixty-seven years ago today. The News was the first to draw the attention of western Europe to the Turkish atrocities in Bulgaria, and for this the first Bulgarian parliament, held in 1879, formally passed a resolution of gratitude.

A Girl's Wild Midnight Ride.

To warn people of a fearful forest fire in the Catskills a young girl rode horseback at midnight and saved many lives. Her deed was glorious but lives are often saved by Dr. King's New Discovery in curing lung trouble, coughs and colds which might have ended in consumption or pneumonia. "It cured me of a dreadful cough and lung disease," writes W. R. Patterson, Wellington, Tex., "after four in our family had died with consumption, and I gained 87 pounds." Nothing so sure and safe for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by F. D. Hall.

An Emporia girl was complaining to her chum the other day of the way her steady was treating her.

"Why don't you give him the mitten?" asked the friend.

TODAY IS CENTENARY OF BIRTH OF FREMONT, THE PATHFINDER.

One of the most [illegible] anniversaries of the year [illegible] is that of today, commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of [illegible] John Charles Fremont, explorer, soldier and statesman. In that rich empire which stretches along the Pacific from Vancouver to San Diego, Fremont will be honored as the great "Pathfinder," for the [illegible] will revere the memory of the man whose bravery and hardihood resulted in the acquisition of the Golden State by the Union. In the history of the Republican party, Fremont holds an important place as its first presidential candidate. The South shares in his glory, for the famous explorer was born in Savannah, Ga., Jan. 21, 1813, and spent his youth and received his education in Charleston, S. C. France, too, has claim a part of Fremont's fame, for his family was a Frenchman who had settled in Norfolk, Va., where he supported himself by teaching his native tongue. Fremont's mother was a daughter of the Old Dominion, of a prominent English family, connected by marriage with the Washington family. She was a Mrs. Pryor, the divorced wife of Major Pryor of Virginia, when she met, loved and married the debonair Frenchman. The latter died in 1818 and his widow, with three children, settled in Charleston.

John Charles Fremont entered Charleston College at the age of 15, where he was a brilliant student until he became acquainted with a young West Indian girl, whose raven hair and soft black eyes interfered sadly with his studies." This love affair resulted in Fremont's expulsion from college. He became a private tutor of mathematics and at twenty was employed in the same capacity on board the sloop of war Natchez. Returning from a two-year cruise, he went to Baltimore and took an examination for the post of professor of mathematics in the navy. A little later he quit the sea and took to railroading, as a surveyor on a line between Charleston and Augusta, Ga., and on other roads in South Carolina and Tennessee. It was as a surveyor in wild sections of the South that he had his first experience in Indian warfare.

Joining the United States army as a second lieutenant in the corps of topographical engineers, Fremont made an examination of the Des Moines River along the western frontier. In 1841, after a romantic love affair, he secretly married Miss Jessie Benton, daughter of the famous Missouri senator.

Fremont's great work, which made his name immortal, began in 1842, when he projected a geographical survey of the entire western country from the Missouri River to the Pacific. His expedition began at a point near Kansas City. Defying the fury of the elements and bands of hostile Indians, he carried on his work and returned in safety. In 1843, at the head of two-score men, he again crossed the Rockies and reached Great Salt Lake, of which no accurate account had ever been given. Thence he proceeded to the upper tributaries of the Columbia, and, in the midst of winter, after terrible hardships, reached Sutter's Fort on the Sacramento. His next expedition was to the maritime region of California and Oregon. Hunger and privation, Indian attacks and a clash with the Mexican authorities, were incidents of this trip. A little later he had the pleasure of receiving the capitulation of the Mexicans, which left California permanently in the possession of the United States. In 1855 Fremont settled in New York, and in the following year was the unsuccessful presidential candidate of the new Republican party. He died in 1890.

[illegible] NORTH WASHINGTON AVE.

Columbus, Ohio.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

NOT AGAINST DANCING OF TURKEY TROT

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 21. — President Wilson today declared that if arrangements were made for a popular reception at the capitol building as a substitute for the inaugural ball, Mrs. Wilson and the Misses Wilson would attend. The governor said the impression that the members of his family would not be present probably had arisen from his letter to William C. Eustis, the inauguration chairman.

The governor took occasion to deny reports that he and Mrs. Wilson had favored the abandonment of the inaugural ball because of the possibility the dancers might indulge in the turkey trot and similar dances. He said he had opposed the idea of an inaugural ball, chiefly because of the indirect expense to the government.

"I am glad to have been the instrument through which the institution was abandoned," he said.

JOHNNY SUMMERS, PRAYING PUGILIST, 30 YEARS OLD TODAY.

Pugilists have never been noted for piety, and it is not the custom to open boxing shows with prayer. Johnny Summers, the English welterweight champion, is an exception to this rule, for he is not only deeply and fervently religious, but he believes in offering up a brief petition to heaven before going after his man. Summers is 30 years old today, having been born in England on Jan. 21, 1883. He has been at the fighting game for a dozen years, and has taken part in nearly a hundred battles. Between 1900 and 1907 he met some of the best men of his weight in England, and was almost always victorious, although on three different occasions the clever Young Joseph held him to a draw. He crossed the Atlantic in 1907 and met disaster at Chelsea, Mass., where he was outpointed by Matty Baldwin. He knocked out Soldier Burns and Kid Sullivan at Baltimore in 1908, and took part in a number of no-decision bouts in New York and Philadelphia. Returning to England in 1908, Summers was challenged by Jimmy Britt of California, and lost the decision in 10 rounds. Early in 1909 he again met Britt and the clever Californian was again the victor. On July 31, 1909, they met the third time, and Summers won by a knockout in the ninth round. Next he tackled Freddie Welsh, who won the decision after twenty fast rounds. Summers then went to Australia, where he knocked out Hugh Meehegan. Back in England, Johnny was knocked out by Harry Lewis in the fourth round and by Dixie Kid in the second inning. His last important battle was fought last month in London, with Syd Burns as his opponent. Johnny prayed for victory before the gong sounded and at the beginning of each round made the sign of the cross. After winning on points in twenty rounds he dropped on his knees and returned thanks for his triumph.

Although Summers is unique in his public manifestations of the religious spirit, his faith is shared by practically all boxers. The great majority of prize fighters are and have always been Irish and Catholics. So far as known to the writer, there has never been an avowed unbeliever in the pugilistic ranks, although the late Marquis of Queensberry, author of the famous "rules" for the elevation of the ring, was an agnostic and the author of several books attacking Christianity. Not long ago it was alleged that Battling Nelson, impressed by the preaching of Billy Sunday, the baseball evangelist, entertained a notion of becoming a preacher.

It sounds like an Irish bull, but most men don't know more than they do know.

AGOGA CLASS AT SUPPER ON SATURDAY P. M.

The Agoga Bible Class of the Fifth Street Baptist church is to hold a class supper in the church parlors of the church on Saturday evening, with Rev. D. E. Miller, one of the popular pastors of Youngstown, Ohio, as the guest of honor. Rev. Mr. Miller is a Denison graduate and won scores of friends during his visit to Summerland Beach last summer. His talk to the young men will be along lines of particular interest in the development of their social selves. The men of the church have also been invited to participate in the supper, and an attendance of about 100 is anticipated. Tickets for the affair are now on sale by members of the class, or at the office of A. Nelson Dodd, in the Newark Trust building. The supper will comprise creamed chicken, mashed potatoes, peas, coffee, ice cream, and other good things, prepared by the ladies of the church and served by the newly organized Young Ladies' Amoma Bible Class.

TEN CENT STORE FIRE ENDS IN LOSS OF $50,000

New London, O., Jan. 21.—Fire which originated in the basement of Day Brothers five and ten cent store here at 2 o'clock this morning, destroyed almost an entire business block and caused damages estimated from $50,000 to $100,000. The cause is unknown.

Galion, Wellington, and Norwalk sent equipment to aid in fighting the flames.

Dr. C. B. Webman was asleep in his office when the fire broke out and escaped by jumping from a second story window. He sustained a broken arm.

RENO TO LOSE IT'S PRE-EMINENCE AS WORLD'S GAYEST, WICKEDEST TOWN

When the Nevada State Legislature convenes today, it is expected to take immediate steps toward a change in the divorce law, making the period of residence required for divorce one year instead of six months.

This sounds commonplace enough, but it means the passing of Reno as the resort and refuge of the matrimonially disillusioned. The glory that was Sioux Falls and is now Reno's, is to pass, and there is weeping and wailing in the little city that crouches where the Sierras come down to the desert. From all over the world they have gathered in the Nevada metropolis—men and women, rich and poor, grave and gay, all animated by a common motive—relief from the galling tie of marriage. Reno's divorce colony has been a constant source of profit and pleasure to the permanent residents, some of whom have amassed fortunes by ministering to the matrimonial misfits. Hotel keepers, owners of cottages, merchants, bankers, newspapers, clergymen, lawyers,—especially lawyers,—and, in fact, practically all the people of Reno, have benefitted directly or indirectly from the stream of gold that flows from the pockets of would-be widows and widowers.

The divorce colony departed and Reno will have lost the last vestige of its claim to being the naughtiest, wickedest and gayest town on the map. Reno, once devilish and proud of it, is to become respectable. Hot Springs, Cripple Creek and San 'Tone, in their palmiest days, were not the equals for cheerful wickedness of the Nevada town. Nevada was the last State in the Union to permit licensed gambling and wide open games of chance, the last to sanction prize fights of unlimited length, later a pestiferous legislature clapped a lid on gambling, and the rattle of the poker chips and the whirr of the roulette wheel were known no more. Of course, there was always a quiet game to be found, but what was that in Reno?

While all good people will hail with joy the tidings that Reno is to become saintly and sanctified, not a few will stifle a sigh of regret for the "good old days" when sanctity was a word unknown in the little city on the Truckee. America will probably never see again the like of Reno in lidless times—an era which had its culmination in those stirring weeks before the Fourth of July, 1910. Then the white race met its black Nemesis, but the fight was only an incident to a saturnalia of free and easy iniquity. Sporting men, actors, novelists, journalists and celebrities of many kinds assembled in Reno for the tremendous blowoff. Breweries, distilleries and wine importers worked overtime to quench the enormous thirst engendered by participation in Reno's last mad swirl of sin. Gamblers from all over the United States, gamblers from Canada, gamblers from Mexico, flocked Renoward as buzzards to carrion. Every available building, shack and back room became a gambling hell or saloon. Every game of chance known to man was to be found running full blast. Practically all the games were straight, although, of course, the percentage always favored the "house." Crooked gamblers were run out of town, for Reno, even in those mad days, had its ethics.

THE·GREAT·COUGH·CURE

LICENSE HEARING

curing a license* * * those applicants concerning whom complaint has been made of their violating the law or operating disorderly places shall have no precedence over any other applicant for license at any time when applications are granted.'

"This means, in effect, that the mere lodging of a complaint against a saloonkeeper, whether such complaint be found justified or not,shall suffice to put him out of business, in case there shall be any new applicants for license at the time he comes up for renewal of his license. By the very simple process of lodging complaints against anyone who enters the business, from term to term it is evident that very soon all applicants will be placed in the same category of ineligibles.

"In line 139 the code says:

"The phrase "person of good moral character, as used in this act, shall be construed to mean a person who has not sold within the past year intoxicating liquor to minors, drunkards, or persons in the habit of getting intoxicated, or to those concerning whom he has been notified that others are dependent upon them for support.'

"How many customers would remain to the saloon keeper if all those upon whom others are dependent for support were to be eliminated? The author of the code realizes that there might still be a few left, and he provides shrewdly for the elimination of even these few, by the following clause, where the code provides: 'A notice filed with the mayor or clerk of the township trustees on the first Monday of each month shall be sufficient to liquor dealers ten days thereafter not to sell intoxicating liquor to the persons whose names are set forth in the notice.'

"Could anything be more comprehensively sweeping? All that is needed under this clause is for some one to procure a list of the citizens of the state, and 10 days after such list has been filed with the mayors and township trustees, all the saloon keepers of the state will have to close their doors, because no one will be left in the state to whom he is privileged to sell his goods.

"Again, in line 229, it is provided: "'License for the sale of intoxicating liquors shall not be granted in territory in which the sale of intoxicating liquor is, or is hereafter, prohibited, and shall be confined to the most efficiently policed parts of the municipality or township.'

"Assuming, for argument's sake, that there are parts of a municipality which are less efficiently policed than others, there must needs be one part which is the least efficiently policed. In that case, all other parts of the municipality must be more efficiently policed, and there the puzzling question arises, how many and which of these more efficiently policed parts of the municipality are to be considered the most efficiently policed parts? The clause under review goes on as follows:

"'No license shall be granted in a purely residential, or in manufacturing portions of a city or municipality, or within 300 feet from any church edifice or public or parochial schoolhouse.'

"Would it not be more simple and concise to say: 'No license shall be granted within two feet of anywhere?' It is notorious that practical prohibition of the liquor traffic was imposed upon the state of Tennessee by a provision reading very much like this one.

"In order to make assurance doubly sure, however, the clause proceeds, in line 225, as follows: 'Such license shall not be granted in those parts of a municipality where it is apparent that the party applying for it is seeking to obtain patronage from adjoining no license territory.' In other words, the declaring of a territory dry shall have the effect of making the adjoining territory dry: with what result throughout the state it is scarcely necessary for me to explain. In short, complete prohibition is provided for in this code in so many ways that if one were to prove ineffective, innumerable others could be relied upon to accomplish the end sought.

"Take it from me," said Judge Black, "if you pass this (section 48 of the brewers' bill) every little boy or girl, half-clad, stamping i n the cold at night at the back door of a saloon, waiting for a can of beer, will create more temperance sentiment than all your preachers. Under that section, a drunken father can compel a child to go to a saloon with a written order for liquor. I don't believe a single juvenile judge in the state would enforce that provision and send a boy or girl of 12 to jail for misrepresenting his age. Not one boy in 100 could pay the fine proposed, $50 to $200, and there is no place to send him but to jail. The people who would take advantage of this section are the class that reputable saloon keepers have been trying for years to get rid of."

He thought it right that a boy of 17 should be made answerable for misrepresenting his age and getting the dealer in trouble.

Wheeler Speaks.

Superintendent Wheeler declared the drys were willing to go the limit in letting the wets demonstrate whether the liquor traffic could be made respectable and harmless in wet territory. "Watch the roll call when the bill is up," he said. "We will give you a square deal for a fair controlling measure to eliminate the evils of the traffic in wet territory."

He pointed out that in making the law the legislature must observe, not merely the one mandate for a license system, but ten mandates, including limitation of saloons to one to 500 people, none in dry territory saloon keepers to be of good moral character and not aliens, or financially interested in more than one location, that licenses be revocable, that the granting power must be in the county, and the law must define what is a saloon.

Contending that the courts would construe that an appeal to the state board would be the same as the state board's issuing licenses and would be invalid, he asked if it would be wise to have a state board with nothing to do but appoint local boards.

"If you do this," he said, "the saloon question will be more dominant in state politics than ever before. When it was time to select a governor would it not be possible, even probable, for the word to go down from the state board to the county board, telling the boys to get busy? Why could not a governor build up, under this system, a greater machine than this or any other state has seen?"

Charging that the bill was against home rule, he drew a graphic picture of a dry governor refusing to grant a single license in Cincinnati.

Dissecting the brewers' bill, he said it was unprecedented to require bonds of officers greater than the amounts for which they were intrusted, and that the bonds required of the license commissioners, $50,000 and $25,000, were a temptation to an applicant to threaten to sue the commissioner on his bond if he refused a license.

Citizens were not granted a hearing to protest. The commissioners had power to grant, renew and transfer, but not to revoke licenses. If the penal sections were to provide imprisonment, thus requiring a jury trial, imprisonment should be mandatory. He could not say whether the courts would hold the "manager" alone, as provided in the bill, but the president, secretary and treasurer of the saloon corporation should be made liable, so they would have a common interest in keeping the law.

Perjury in a horse trade was a felony, and he saw no reason why it should be made a misdemeanor in saloon cases, as it was in this bill. The provision that municipal councils be empowered to limit the number of licenses, he said, would put the liquor question back into the hands of councilmen, from which it had been taken by the Beal option law. He favored leaving the limitation to popular vote on petition.

Under section 23 the board would have to grant licenses up to the 500 limit. In some towns and townships there were less than the limit, and under this provision an unfit applicant might demand a license, and if there were no other applicants,could bring a mandamus suit, Mr. Wheeler pointed out.

Preference to old saloon keepers was proper, but the bill gave them this advantage even though well-grounded complaints had been made against them, provided they had not been convicted twice. In figuring the number of saloons, the 3 29-46 was the correct percentage of the school enumeration, but the right method was that of the United States census bureau, of adding to the last census the proportionate increase by years as shown in the decade.

Combining all offenses of a liquor dealer on one day gave him a chance to plead guilty to a minor offense on a particular day and escape a serious charge, Mr. Wheeler said. Provisions that should go into the bill, he said, were:

"Electors heard against granting license and to revoke it.

"No license within 300 feet of a church or schoolhouse.

"Saloon keepers to give bond to comply with the law.

"Define pecuniary interest so that brewer cannot control purchasing power of saloon.

"Dwelling house should have no connection with saloon.

"License obtained by fraud forfeited.

"Confines saloons to well policed districts.

"Prevents sales to minors whether they have permission of parents or not."

COUNCIL MEETING

the city; referred to the safety committee. By Mr. Keller, authorizing a contract for a sewer in Granville street from Wright to Sixteenth. By Mr. Muenz, to issue notes for the construction of the Maholm street sewer. By Mr. Keller, to issue one bond for $1,000 to construct a sewer from Granville street to Raccoon Creek along Sixteenth street. Mr. Keller explained that an error in the previous legislation made the Granville street sewer stop at Sixteenth street without any outlet. He stated that it was necessary to run the sewer to the creek to provide an outlet. All the ordinances were passed on suspension of rules.

Resolutions were introduced as follows: By Mr. Payne, to prepare plans for the Washington street sewer, from Cedar to Webb, adopted. By Mr. Payne, declaring it necessary to constructed a sewer in South Buena Vista street from Main to Canal, adopted.

Mr. Stasel offered a resolution that all standing committees appointed by the president at the last meeting of council, be discharged from further duty. President Rossell declared the resolution out of order He stated that the committees had been appointed in compliance with the rules governing the council and that his action could not be repudiated by council unless the rules were changed.

City Solicitor Jones was called upon for an opinion regarding the matter. He said that council could make its own rules but that the resolution in question did not amend the rules. Mr. Prior oratorically declared that these rules were adopted by council several years ago, and dramatically demanded to know if "the rules didn't ever run out." President Rossell stated that these rules had been governing the council meeting since 1906 and they would continue in force until amended or repealed.

Another resolution by Mr. Stasel provided for the appeal of rule No. 8 of "the rules and order of business governing the council of the City of Newark," and amending Rule 30 of the same document. The rule repealed is as follows: "Standing committees shall be appointed by the president of the council, in open council, and the first named member of any committee shall be chairman and it shall be the duty of the president not later than the first meeting of council in each year to appoint standing committees for each year—.

The amendment to Rule 30 provides that "all committees shall be appointed by the president, subject to the approval of council, for the term of their office, and all vacancies shall be filled subject to approval of council; each committee shall choose its own chairman. any proposed amendment shall be referred to a standing committee on rules."

Some debate followed the introduction of this resolution and Councilman Muenz moved that the resolution be referred to the law committee. The motion was lost by a tie vote, Messrs. Baker, Beckman, Dwyer and Muenz supporting the motion, while Messrs. Dayton, Keller, Prior and Stasel opposed it. Councilman Payne did not vote on the motion. On Mr. Dayton's motion to adopt, Messrs Baker, Beckman, Dwyer and Muenz voted nay, and Messrs. Dayton, Keller, Payne, Prior and Stasel supported the motion which prevailed.

Councilman Stasel's resolution instructing the city solicitor to enjoin the destruction of the city building was up for third reading. On motion to adopt, Messrs. Baker, Beckman, Dwyer and Muenz opposed the measure and Messrs. Dayton, Keller, Payne, Prior and Stasel voted favorably. The resolution was declared adopted.

Immediately following the announcement of the vote, City Solicitor Roderic Jones addressed the chair and stated that he had a communication on the subject being considered, and tossed a type-written manuscript on the clerk's desk. He denounced the council's action and stated clearly his position in the matter. His communication was as follows:

Solicitor Jones' Statement.

To the Honorable Council of the City of Newark, Ohio:

Gentlemen: You have seen fit in your wisdom to pass a resolution directing me, as City Solicitor, to bring a suit to enjoin the State Fire Marshal from tearing down certain portions of the City Hall building in pursuance of his order of last summer.

The law makes the City Solicitor the legal adviser and counsel of the city government and of all its departments, and the presumption is that it is the intention of the law that the city officers shall be governed by the advice of the City Solicitor as to all questions of law.

As I have repeatedly expressed an opinion to your honorable body that no injunction could, under the circumstances, be successfully maintained against the State Fire Marshal, your passage of this resolution would indicate your intention to proceed contrary to the advice of your lawful and official legal adviser. This raises a grave question as to whether I ought to allow you to do so. If I were absolutely sure that I am right, I certainly would allow no suit to be brought in the name of the city for the purpose indicated, but as there is always some doubt about any legal question, and inasmuch as I, as well as all other persons, except a majority of your honorable body, am prone to error, I have felt it my duty to get such assistance in this matter as th law gives me.

It is the law that the Attorney General of Ohio is required to give advice to City Solicitors, by which advice, when received, they are required to be guided. Distrusting, therefore, my own conclusion as to this matter, I did, on the 12th day of November, 1912, submit this question to the Attorney General for his opinion, which I have not yet received. I have, however, reason to believe that the State Fire Marshal will take no steps in this matter until the Attorney General renders an opinion in regard to it.

In view of the circumstances, it now becomes necessary to inform you of what I intend to do in pursuance of your resolution, and in order that there may be no misunderstanding of it, I have thought best to do so in writing. If no necessity for immediate action arises until I get an answer from the Attorney General, I shall allow no action to be taken in regard to the matter at all. If the necessity for immediate action does arise before I hear from the Attorney General, in case any reputable attorney will give me his written opinion that an injunction suit can be successfully maintained, I will then allow him to bring suit in my name and on behalf of the city.

Should the Attorney General advise me that such a suit can be maintained, I will commence proceedings myself, but if the Attorney General advises me that no such proceeding can be successfully maintained, I will not allow any such proceeding to be brought, as in that case it would be a sheer waste of the taxpayers' money.

Respectfully submitted,
RODERIC JONES.
City Solicitor.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Report of the Examiners of the County Commissioners' Report.

To the Honorable Judge of the Common Pleas Court of Licking County, Ohio:

We, the undersigned, appointed by your honor to examine the annual report of the County Commissioners of Licking County, Ohio, and report thereon, beg to report that we have discharged that duty.

We have carefully investigated the manner of the letting of contracts and find the law in that regard has been complied with. We find no errors between the amounts allowed by the commissioners and the payments thereof on the warrants of the auditor on the County Treasurer, and believe the same are in due form and in compliance with the law.

We find, however, the following irregularities: Section 2917 G. C., provides that the Prosecuting Attorney is the legal adviser of the County Commissioners and all other county officers and shall prosecute or defend all civil actions in which the Commissioners in their official capacity are parties.

Section 2412, G. C., provides the manner in which the Commissioners may employ legal counsel other than the Prosecutor. The Prosecutor must make a request for such employment in writing to the Commissioners.

We find in several matters relating to county ditches and in matters relating to the different issues of county bonds attorney fees have been allowed by the Commissioners, but there is no evidence on the records of the Commissioners of any request having been filed by the Prosecutor for the employment of such additional counsel.

Section 2850, G. C., provides that the Sheriff shall be allowed from forty-five cents to seventy-five cents per day for boarding each prisoner under his charge. The Commissioners shall determine this allowance within the limits of the prescribed amounts. The Sheriff has been allowed sixty cents a day for several years, but there is no entry fixing this amount on the Commioners' journal within the time covered by this report. This entry in our opinion should be made annually.

In several cost bills allowed magistrates an allowance of one dollar has been made for sitting in trial in cases in which the magistrates' jurisdiction is only preliminary. We are of the opinion that magistrates have the legal right to collect from the county for sitting in trial in criminal cases only in cases in which they have final jurisdiction. In no case can they collect from the county for sitting in trial where the matter is only a preliminary hearing.

In the allowance for the burial of soldiers we find that the proper affidavits have in each case been presented to the Commissioners, but the law provides for burial only in cases where the soldier or his family are in indigent circumstances. An affidavit to this effect has in each instance been filed with the Commissioners but there are a number of cases where the soldier left a considerable estate which has been administered on in the Probate Court. We suggest that this allowance should not be made where the records of the Probate Court show the soldier to have been possessed of an estate. If the law is wrong it should be changed to include all soldiers, but in the meantime no more matter of sentiment should induce persons to file false affidavits with the Commissioners.

C. N. MOODIE,
JOHN M. SWARTZ,
PHIL B. SMYTHE,

There Are Two Good Reason Why We Should Have Your Business.

FIRST—Our association is not established for profit but for the mutual benefit of its members. Its earnings after actual expenses are paid are divided pro-rata among its members.

SECOND—We protect our members savings by only loaning money on real estate after the property has been inspected by three members of our board of directors and has been approved by the Board. As a further precaution after the property has been appraised at its actual valuation only two-thirds of the amount is loaned to take care of any possible shrinkage.

Fifty lawyers, judges and county officers have signified their intention of attending the annual banquet of the Licking County Bar Association, which is scheduled for the evening of February 11.

Charles W. Miller, Prosecuting Attorney J. Howard Jones and Edward Kibler Jr., comprise the committee appointed by the association to look after the details of the affair. THE BIRTHDAY CALENDAR.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Be careful of your letters; they may bring down trouble on your head. You will have ups and downs in the following year and it will be better to keep your own counsel, for friends in whom you confide will disappoint you.

Those born today will be rather flighty in disposition, but will have the advantage of being able to attract valuable friends. Their talents will be artistic and constructive and their greatest fault will be lack of perseverance.

Be sure you are right, but don't jump to the conclusion that everybody else is wrong.

Musterole Better Than Mustard Plaster

MUSTEROLE is oil of mustard combined with other simples used in home medicine.

It is a clean, white ointment that you rub on and the pain is gone! No plaster, no mess—no blister!

It does all the work of the good old-fashioned mustard plaster, but does it better.

Millions of jars of MUSTEROLE are sold annually.

Doctors and nurses recommend it to patients; it is constantly used in many of the large hospitals.

MUSTEROLE is what Twentieth Century science has made of the remedy that your mother and grandmother depended on. It gives instant relief from Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Tonsilitis, Croup, Stiff Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Headache, Congestion, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Pains and Aches of the Back or Joints, Sprains, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Chilblains, Frosted Feet, Colds of the Chest (it prevents Pneumonia.)

MUSTEROLE WILL NOT BLISTER

At your druggist's—in 25c and 50c jars and a special large hospital size for $2.50.

Accept no substitute. If your druggist cannot supply you, send 25c or 50c to the MUSTEROLE Company, Cleveland, Ohio, and we will mail you a jar, postage prepaid.

Tells how MUSTEROLE relieves:

Fred Gentner, Piqua, Ohio: "For two years I suffered with rheumatism. The doctors treated me for different kinds of sickness. But did me no good. I read of Musterole, and began to use it at once. In a short time I regained the use of my limb."
